Chamber Of Commerce Holds Annual Meeting, Banquet

Cavett Robert and Dr. Carlos Alvarez look on. Robert was guest speaker for the Chamber's annual meeting and banquet Wednesday night and Dr. Alvarez served as master of ceremonies.

Approximately 350 Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce members and their guests gathered Wednesday night for their annual meeting and banquet. Guest speaker for the night was Cavett Robert, noted international motivation lecturer.

Robert is a former attorney. He told the Chamber membership of many of the humorous episodes of his life. In addition to being entertaining, the guest speaker's presentation had a message concerning the "business of people" and the importance of caring about others' problems.

The annual meeting was opened by an invocation by the Rev. Melvin Maxwell followed by the banquet served by Hedges Chapel.

Dr. Carlos Alvarez served as a most gracious and entertaining master of ceremonies.

With reflections of the year just past, immediate past president T. D. Van Camp told of the various activities in which the Chamber was engaged during 1975 and recognized the office staff, executive director Jean Ankrom and secretary Carolyn Clark.

Van Camp also recognized the outgoing board members, Dan Hindy, Tom Bennett, Roger Benington, Harold Pontius and David Yates. The past president then introduced the 1975 committee chairmen as follows: George Hamrick, agri-business; Richard Gerhardt, area development; Earl Palm, budget and finance; Ned Harden, city-county planning; Larry Plum, education; Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad, health; Bill Stout and Steve Stevenson, legislative; Jo Ann Brink, membership; Nelson Embrey, public relations; Rosemary Linn, retail merchants and Asa Elsea, safety.

Concluding his business and speech, Van Camp introduced the new Chamber president, Larry Plum and turned over the job to him.

Plum spoke on the plans for the Chamber during 1976 and introduced the new board members John Fanale, Walter Garner, Ward Skinner, Dr. Robert Smith and Chaney Vance. New committee chairmen were also recognized by the president.

Vane and Tom Tootle were appointed to act as co-chairmen with last year's chairmen of the agri-business and legislative committees, respectively. Other new chairmen were Asa Elsea, budget and finance; James Butler, education; William Bennett, membership; Red Wilson and Dick Davis, retail merchants and Ed Bohenko, safety.

In conclusion, Plum called Van Camp back to the podium and presented him with a plaque commemorating his year's service as president of the Chamber.

Democrats Ready Budget Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are warming up Congress' new budget machinery to review and most likely expand on President Ford's $394.2-billion spending proposal for the year beginning next Oct. 1.

The budget Ford submitted Wednesday calls for increased defense spending, higher Social Security taxes and reductions in some welfare programs, along with an additional $10 billion cut in income taxes. His proposal ran immediately into a chorus of criticism from the Democrats, who control Congress.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, delivering the Democrats' response to Ford's State of the Union address, said Wednesday that Congress would agree with the need for a balanced budget, but not until the economy regains its health. Until then, he said, the economy needs the stimulation of government spending to assure recovery.

Muskie noted that Ford's proposals suggested a minimal government involvement in creating new jobs and said the Ford plans would doom America to unemployment of 7 per cent for the rest of the decade.

The Maine Democrat did not provide specific figures, but said Congress should consider a government service job program to put some 300,000 people to work, along with a short-term public works program.

The new federal budget act, designed to help the lawmakers set their own fiscal priorities as they consider the income and outgo picture as a whole, goes fully into effect for the first time this year.

The House Budget Committee has scheduled two weeks of hearings on the budget to begin Monday. The Senate committee starts on Feb. 3.

Chairman Brock Adams, D-Wash., of the House committee summed up his view of Ford's proposal with a paraphrase of Marie Antoinette's purported wisecrack. "Let them eat stock options," Adams said.

The Ford budget, Adams said, would "take from those with low incomes and give to the big corporations, ... increase unemployment and shift the burden to states and local governments."

It constitutes bad economics, he said, and would be bad for the recovering economy.

Other Democratic comments were much in the same vein. House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said the budget priorities are "100 per cent wrong" and would mean the loss of 200,000 more jobs.

Some Republicans predicted battles ahead. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said he expects Ford to veto any tax reduction if his $394.2 billion spending ceiling is pierced.

The senior Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. Elford A. Cederberg of Michigan, called for "adequate, responsible and prompt attention" to Ford's plans, but questioned whether "this Congress can show the restraint necessary to hold outlays to a level approximating the President's proposal."

Patrol Investigates Two Injury Accidents

The local post of the State Highway Patrol investigated 20 accidents Wednesday due to road conditions and reported two injury accidents this morning.

At 6:40 a.m. today, a Teays Valley School bus driven by Charles E. Hutchins, 39, Route 2, Ashville, was sideswiped by an auto.

According to Ptl. Fred Summers' report, the bus was traveling south on Route 23 starting to make a left turn onto Route 762. Mrs. Joyce L. Tweed, 30, Chillicothe, started to pass the bus in her auto when she skidded on the icy road and hit the side of the bus.

There was moderate damage caused to both vehicles. No injuries were reported although the bus was loaded with students.

Ptl. Summers cited Mrs. Tweed for excessive speed for the road conditions.

An 18-year-old Circleville man was seriously injured in the second accident investigated by the Patrol today. The accident occurred at approximately 7:30 a.m. today at the junction of Route 23 and the Circleville-Tarleton Road.

Ptl. Dale Cline dispatched to the scene and found Robin A. Steeley, 18, 124 W. Franklin St., pinned in his wrecked auto.

Apparently Harold R. Haley, 49, Jackson, was driving his truck northbound on Route 23 when Steeley made a left turn in front of him.

Steeley was southbound on Route 23 making his turn onto the Circleville-Tarleton Road when he was struck by Haley's truck. The truck jackknifed and slid off the right side of the road and struck a fence.

Steeley was taken to Berger Hospital where he was admitted suffering injuries sustained in the accident. Ptl. Cline is still conducting the investigation of the accident.

In November, Page stated that the numbers east of the river would be completed by January 1. The engineer states that certain work schedules were revised and this caused the delay.

According to the engineer, work has now shifted back into the area east of the river, and residents east of the river should be receiving their number soon.

THE income tax program at the Pickaway County Public Library 7:30 p.m. Friday will be about unusual taxpayer situations. This program will be of particular interest to those persons filing quarterly and to those with a variety of non-salary income sources. Louise Hill will be the guest speaker.

Lebanon Truce May Halt War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Suleiman Franjeh announced today that all Lebanon's warring factions have agreed on a cease-fire and "fundamental principles for a political solution" to end the nine-month-old civil war between the country's Moslems and Christians.

A presidential statement broadcast by the government radio said agreement had been reached on formation of a supreme military committee to supervise "an end to the fighting and a return to normal life."

It will include representatives of the Lebanese and Syrian armies and the Palestine Liberation Army, the announcement said.

There was no immediate comment from such Christian combatants as Interior Minister Camille Chamoun and leaders of the right-wing Phalange party, who denied an Egyptian report Wednesday night that all factions were ready to sign a cease-fire agreement.

But the leftist Moslems and their Palestinian allies were reported in control of most of the country, and it appeared that opponents of the agreement, which was sponsored by the Arab government of Syria, could do little in the way of effective action.

The presidential announcement was made after meetings between Lebanese leaders and a peacemaking Syrian delegation headed by Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam.

The announcement said the supreme military committee would announce a deadline for the cease-fire and a timetable for disengagement of the warring factions. It said subcommittees would be set up to make arrangements to implement the cease-fire in each battle zone.

Informed sources said the peace plan called for the return of all Christians, Moslems and Palestinians to the areas they occupied before the war; retreat of all armed men to their bases, including troops of the Palestine Liberation Army who came from Syria this week; redistribution of political power to end the Christian dominance and give the Moslems an equal voice; and machinery to improve the economic lot of the Moslems.

The Moslems and their Palestine allies were reported in control of northern, eastern and southern Lebanon, while the Christians held eastern Beirut, an area to the north and northeast of the capital and towns and villages scattered through Moslem areas.

The Moslem leftists seized town halls and police stations, displacing the Lebanese government's officials and police, and laid siege to the isolated Christian enclaves. A police spokesman said scores of police posts were looted of arms and ammunition. The Moslems and Palestinians also surrounded two air force bases near the Syrian border.

In Beirut, the Christian and Moslem militias still battled for control of the downtown commercial district and the seaside hotel district. The spokesman reported 25 combatants killed and 40 wounded in Beirut during the night.

Property Tax Vote Postponed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats have postponed until next week final action on a bill designed to protect Ohioans from future, inflation-caused increases in their real estate tax bills.

The House Ways and Means Committee had hoped late Wednesday to ready the reform measure for a floor vote, but became bogged down in a series of amendments. Chairman George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, scheduled a vote on the bill for Tuesday.

Tablack's committee met at the end of a busy legislative day and on the eve of major announcements by both political parties about what they plan to do to try to stabilize Ohio homeowners' tax bills.

The issue has become hot politically this legislative election year, only slightly more out front than what now has become a battle between the Senate and House over revisions in rate making procedures in the state's public utilities laws. Neither assures utility customers of lower bills, but sponsors say they could mean smaller increases in the future.

A Senate subcommittee recommended approval late Wednesday of its version of a new rate making formula. Its bill was described as being considerably stronger than a House bill heavily lobbied by utilities and said to have been largely rewritten by them. The latter remains in the House Insurance, Utilities, and Financial Institutions Committee.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, and Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, said they would explain today their party's "two pronged" attack against unvoted property tax increases.

At the same time, the board of tax appeals called for public testimony — with action expected shortly thereafter — on Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes' plan to freeze property tax assessments as they stood Jan. 1.

Democrats in the legislature claim Rhodes' plan, to affect the freeze by administrative rules changes, is unconstitutional. However, the governor has said that should it turn out to be so, he will by then have asked that the freeze be brought about by a constitutional amendment.

Riffe and Ocasek both went on record earlier as saying they expect passage of the bill in Tablack's committee, or possibly an amended version of it, and favorable action on a pending constitutional amendment giving owners of residential property lower taxes in the years ahead. The leaders say they want that amendment under study in the Senate, on Ohio's June 8 ballot.

Rhodes' plan, as announced originally, called for the freeze to apply from the moment of its adoption to property tax assessments as they

Development Seminar Concluded

The Pickaway County Community Development Seminar concluded Wednesday with group discussions of community problems and a summary of the two-day program.

The purpose of the seminar was to teach community leaders how to identify and cope with the problems that go with population and industrial growth.

Dr. George Kliminski, director, center of community education, Kent State University, was on the morning program. The theme of his discussion was "Community Education — A Concept For The Future."

A panel of Dr. Byron Nolte, agricultural engineer, solid waste; Dr. Fred Hitzhusen, extension economist;

Priscilla Steele, county planning commission advisor; and Greg Bigam, county coordinator.

Dr. Nolte discussed drainage and flooding problems, Dr. Hitzhusen, solid waste disposal, Mrs. Steele, land use planning; Bigam funding programs and projects.

The noon luncheon speaker was Mrs. Rachael Powell, consultant for Government Information Inc. She discussed "Getting Involved In Community Affairs."

Group discussions were: Involvement and Cooperation, chaired by Mrs. Powell; Natural Resources, chaired by Mrs. Steele and Dr. Nolte; Solid Waste, chaired by Dr. Hitzhusen; Community Education, chaired by Dr.

Kliminski.

At the close of the seminar, George Hamrick, county agriculture agent, asked those present to list five community problems and the names of five persons who would be capable people to serve on a community development committee.

The two day program was summarized by Kaye F. Bartlett, area extension agent, community resource development.

Among those attending the seminar were representatives of townships trustees, village governments, Circleville City Council, Pickaway County elected officials, city and county schools, agriculture, industrial and business communities.

SEMINAR SPEAKERS — Wednesday's speakers at the Community Development Seminar sponsored by the Pickaway County Extension Service were, from the left, Rachael Powell, Dr. George Kliminski, Dr. Fred Hitzhusen and Dr. Byron Nolte. The seminar was held at Pickaway Arms.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined moderately today, running into more of the profit taking that appeared on Wednesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, off 3.62 in Wednesday's trading, was down another 3.07 at 943.17 by noon today. Losers outpaced gainers by a little less than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Street had generally regarded Wednesday's session as a test of whether the Dow could continue climbing past the 950 level. When it tried twice and failed both times, they evidently concluded that the market had hit a point of increased resistance, and decided to do some profit taking.

Chrysler was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 14.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .12 to 51.93. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was unchanged at 92.93.

French Killer Strikes 8th Time

NOGENT-SUR-OISE, France (AP) — This is the France of vacant lots, no-star restaurants, mud-caked sidewalks and a madman who has killed eight women.

He murdered again this month, dragging a 20-year-old typist into the garbage-strewn yard between a carpentry shop and a 12-room hotel.

The newspapers talked about the assassin of the shadows, the suburban Jack the Ripper and the monster from the banks of the Oise River, but the names were easy tags for a man who has brought a very glacial kind of terror to a very ordinary place.

It is the banality of the killer and his victims, the apparent Monday-Tuesday-Wednesday mediocrity of their lives, that the police say is making it hard for them. Like the salesmen and secretaries, their trousers too narrow, their skirts too unfashionably short, who file into the little station for the 7:14 to Paris, neither the murderer nor the dead women have offered enough distinguishing marks or clues to help.

"We have nothing," says a bearded detective transferred from Lille, 120 miles away, for the case. "I'm not kidding, nothing," he repeats, "No leads. What we know about the guy is public record.

"He's a hunter, he's meticulous, he's intelligent. He seems to get his pleasure out of preparing and watching his victims, because the crimes are committed very quickly. The women are not molested, although their underclothes are removed, and usually the killer takes their purse with him. We figure he may be impotent. But there's nothing unusual or inter-related about the women he's hit except that they are all brunettes. And there's nothing special about him obviously, because a minute after it's over, he blends perfectly, absolutely noiselessly, into this charming setting."

The setting is a four square mile area in Nogent, population 15,636, and the neighboring village. Villers-St. Paul, population 3,939, about 30 miles north of Paris. It is a grey and black place of eggbox apartment buildings facing rows of attached houses of scabby brick. What there is left of a horizon is smothered by the smoke rising from the tanks and piping of the chemical plant just beyond the railroad tracks.

The killer knows the communities and their rhythms perfectly and acts at their only real moment of flux: when people are walking in the darkness to catch the train to Paris, or returning home at nightfall. Over the seven-year period that the killings have continued, they stop as the days lengthen out of winter and light comes to the commuting hours.

The series goes back to January 1969 when Andree Lecron, preparing her husband's dinner, was wounded in the shoulder by a .22 caliber bullet fired through a window. Thirteen days later, the first killing took place.

Cruiser Damaged In Wreck

A Pickaway County Sheriff's Cruiser received moderate damage and the South Bloomfield Village Cruiser heavy damage when they were struck by a vehicle driven by Rhuben W. Bradshaw, 48, Chillicothe, 10:24 a.m. Wednesday.

According to the investigation by Deputy Nick Franklin, the Sheriff's cruiser was stopped along the road, with the Bloomfield cruiser parked behind it, investigating an accident with emergency lights in operation.

Bradshaw's vehicle, northbound on Route 23, slid on the icy road and struck the Bloomfield cruiser, which was parked 26-inches on the pavement, which in turn, struck the county cruiser.

Bradshaw was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

Twelve-year-old Edward Dodd of Columbus was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead when he struck the rear of an auto, driven by Michael R. Forquer, 23, Ashville, 5:10 p.m. Wednesday.

Northbound on Route 23, Forquer was attempting to make a turn when Dodd struck the auto in the rear.

Forquer was treated and released at Berger Hospital for minor head contusions.

Simulated 'Cold War' Under Way

FT. GREELY, Alaska (AP) — Thousands of American military men are fighting a simulated enemy in defense of the $6.3-billion trans-Alaska pipeline. It's part of "Jack Frost '76," war games in central Alaska's wilderness.

Field officers emphasize the maneuvers, costing $5 million, are aimed primarily at training American combat forces in arctic warfare and cold weather survival.

But a key objective of the 14,000 fighting men is a hypothetical defense of the pipeline being built along the 800 miles from Prudhoe Bay on the arctic coast to the southern port city of Valdez.

The U.S. Readiness Command at MacDill Air Force Base outside Tampa, Fla., wrote the script for the maneuvers, which assume efforts by a simulated enemy to blow up the critical pipeline, which will keep oil flowing southward when it is completed in July 1977.

Temperatures have dipped to as low as 40 degrees below zero during the exercise, which winds down Saturday but officially ends Jan. 31. But a freak warming trend punctuated the mock warfare last weekend and Col. H.N. Schwartzkopf, the defense team's brigade commander of maneuvers, said he wasn't particularly happy.

"My biggest disappointment is that it's springtime out there today," he said, referring to the two-day heat wave that sent temperatures to 33 degrees above zero.

"We don't want those boys who came up here from Georgia to think this is easy to fight in the arctic," he said.

Some units were airlifted from as far away as Massachusetts and the Deep South to train in the war games.

But a cold front already was visible above the tips of distant mountain crags, and while commanders waited for the inevitable snow and tunnel winds, soldiers in the field rechecked bulky padded clothing and stomped the frozen ground.

The military men — from the Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force and Coast Guard, with some Canadian soldiers and Eskimos — were clad in white to blend in with the terrain.

"We aren't getting much sleep and we get pretty cold sitting here keeping guard along the perimeter," said Pfc. Danny E. Bates, 23, of Modesto, Calif.

Medical science already has the know-how to save 100,000 more lives from cancer each year if folks got the American Cancer Society's message about the importance of having a periodic checkup, early diagnosis and prompt treatment of cancer.

He was retired from the Circleville Fire Department, was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church and BPOE 77.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Olive Peters Eitel; one daughter, Mrs. Lewis (Eleanor) Conkel, Brooksville, Fla.; two sons, Henry A. Eitel, 315 Northridge Road; Orrin (John) Eitel, 1142 Atwater Ave.; one step-son, Donald Juellen, Ashville; one step-daughter, Mrs. William (Elaine) Winter, Route 1, Ashville; eight grandchildren; three step-grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren.

The funeral service will be held 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Trinity Lutheran Church with Pastor Carl Zehner officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends will be received in Mader Funeral Home 7-9 p.m. Thursday, and 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Friday.

The Elks Lodge memorial service will be held 8 p.m. Friday at the funeral home.

The family would appreciate memorial contributions to the Trinity Lutheran Church Building Fund or to the American Cancer Society.

He was employed as a stationary boiler engineer at Mead Paper Mill in Chillicothe.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined moderately today, running into more of the profit taking that appeared on Wednesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 3.62 in Wednesday's trading, was down another 3.07 at 943.17 by noon today. Losers outpaced gainers by a little less than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Street had generally regarded Wednesday's session as a test of whether the Dow could continue climbing past the 950 level. When it tried twice and failed both times, they evidently concluded that the market had hit a point of increased resistance, and decided to do some profit taking.

Chrysler was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 14.

The NYSE's composite index of all listed common stocks slipped .12 to 51.93. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was unchanged at 92.93.

Simulated 'Cold War' Under Way

FT. GREELY, Alaska (AP) — Thousands of American military men are fighting a simulated enemy in defense of the $6.3-billion trans-Alaska pipeline. It's part of "Jack Frost '76," war games in central Alaska's wilderness.

Field officers emphasize the maneuvers, costing $5 million, are aimed primarily at training American combat forces in arctic warfare and cold weather survival.

But a key objective of the 14,000 fighting men is a hypothetical defense of the pipeline being built along the 800 miles from Prudhoe Bay on the arctic coast to the southern port city of Valdez.

The U.S. Readiness Command at MacDill Air Force Base outside Tampa, Fla., wrote the script for the maneuvers, which assume efforts by a simulated enemy to blow up the critical pipeline, which will keep oil flowing southward when it is completed in July 1977.

Temperatures have dipped to as low as 40 degrees below zero during the exercise, which winds down Saturday but officially ends Jan. 31. But a freak warming trend punctuated the mock warfare last weekend and Col. H.N. Schwartzkopf, the defense team's brigadier commander of maneuvers, said he wasn't particularly happy.

"My biggest disappointment is that it's springtime out there today," he said, referring to the two-day heat wave that sent temperatures to 33 degrees above zero.

"We don't want those boys who came up here from Georgia to think this is easy to fight in the arctic," he said.

Some units were airlifted from as far away as Massachusetts and the Deep South to train in the war games.

But a cold front already was visible above the tips of distant mountain crags, and while commanders waited for the inevitable snow and tunnel winds, soldiers in the field rechecked bulky padded clothing and stomped the frozen ground.

The military men — from the Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force and Coast Guard, with some Canadian soldiers and Eskimos — were clad in white to blend in with the terrain.

"We aren't getting much sleep and we get pretty cold sitting here keeping guard along the perimeter," said Pfc. Danny E. Bates, 23, of Modesto, Calif.

Medical science already has the know-how to save 100,000 more lives from cancer each year if folks got the American Cancer Society's message about the importance of having a periodic checkup, early diagnosis and prompt treatment of cancer.

ALCOHOL: The New Teen-Age Turn-On

Peer Pressure Encourages Drinking

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
And BRIAN SULLIVAN
FOURTH IN A SERIES

Peer pressure is the Pied Piper of adolescence.

The piping now leads a sizeable parade to alcoholic drink.

"Kids pick up their drinking habits from parents, other adults and peer groups," meaning other kids, says Donald Phelps of the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

Parents and other adults might be good examples, but the other kids' peer group "tends to take risks with all the things in our environment. Not to go along with the crowd almost leads to ostracism. Kids spend an awful lot of time and effort trying to be like other kids."

Shy children may find that with a drink or two they become more relaxed, witty, spontaneous. And perhaps a very small percentage of teen-agers who early adopt the bottle are suicidal, seeing no great future in life. Or they may be using alcohol for other reasons of escape.

Peer pressure can lead to healthy, constructive behavior. Or sometimes to destructive behavior because it is not well-informed.

Teen years, for example, are a time of healthy, normal interest in sex and learning about sex. But many teen-agers are not aware that abuse of alcohol can interfere with sexual ability, says Dr. Frank Seixas of the National Council on Alcoholism. Teen-age boys usually have a keen interest in athletics, but may not know that alcohol demands a price in athletic skills, slowing reaction time, affecting nerves and muscles adversely.

In teen years, young people are learning for the first time what it means to manage themselves and their own lives, Dr. Seixas adds. But alcohol can rob them of this control over body and mind.

"Peers" may not know that mixing alcohol and drugs can be dangerous or even fatal. Sleeping pills taken with alcohol can kill. Antihistamines to relieve allergies often make one sleepy. Enhanced by alcohol, that can make a driver more dangerous.

"Out of sight, out of mind," the saying goes.

Thus the American middle class, whether in city, suburban or rural areas, paid little attention to the creeping horror of heroin or other drug addiction so long as it was confirmed to the ghettos and among the voiceless poor.

But, when their own children became involved, they reacted with shock, alarm, dismay and sometimes with hysteria.

Now their new concern is over-indulgence in alcohol. While accurate figures are lacking, some experts think it is more a problem the higher the family level of income and education.

"We've always blamed the individual alone for alcohol problems," says Dr. Morris Chafetz, an authority on alcoholism. "But the context, the social environment in which alcohol is placed, may be a greater push toward the alcohol problem than the individual."

"Many Americans drink liquor as they live life — rapidly and under tense circumstances." At cocktail parties and on commuter railroad bars, "the alcoholic beverage is gulped rapidly with the least minimum of food, and the general aim is to reach the desired end point of 'being high.' Even more significant is the fact that this pattern is condoned. In the United States, it is frequently all right to drink just for the purpose of getting drunk."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1976. There are 344 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, England came to the end of an era with the death of Queen Victoria at 82.

On this date—

In 1517, Turkish troops captured Cairo.

In 1528, England and France declared war on the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V.

In 1791, George Washington appointed commissioners to survey the District of Columbia.

In 1905, scores of Russians were killed as Cossacks and imperial army troops fired on demonstrators in St. Petersburg in Russia.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson proposed a League of Nations.

In 1944, during World War II, Allied troops landed on the Anzio beachhead in Italy.

Ten years ago: It was disclosed in Nigeria that Prime Minister Abubakar Tafawa Alewa was dead, apparently slain in a coup a week earlier.

Five years ago: Sixteen persons were missing and reported dead after explosions and fire destroyed an American-owned tanker off Sardinia in the Mediterranean.

One year ago: U.S. House of Representative Democrats ousted three Southern committee chairmen from their posts in the biggest setback in the seniority system in Congress in more than 50 years.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator Birch Bayh Jr. of Indiana is 48. Actress Ann Sothern is 65.

Thought for today: No man has a good enough memory to be a successful liar — President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, early in the American Revolution, the General Court in Watertown, Mass., passed an act excluding Indians, Negroes and mulattoes from enlisting in the militia.

Seek Clues In Slaying

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Police reported no leads today after a 69-year old west side widow was found murdered in her bed Tuesday.

The victim was discovered by Hamilton police and the victim's daughter-in-law.

Butler County Coroner Dr. Garrett J. Boone said Mrs. Violette L. Schisler, had been assaulted and beaten. The unclothed body was found bound with venetian blind cords. Boone said the victim had been dead several days.

Mrs. Muriel Schisler, the daughter-in-law, was with police when the body was found around noon. Police Chief George McNally said the house, in which the victim lived alone, was not ransacked.

Neighbors called the victim's relatives after Mrs. Schisler had not been seen for several days.

Too much of the sun can be dangerous and painful, the American Cancer Society warns. Use hats, beach umbrellas and lotions to safeguard against skin cancer.

LAFF - A - DAY

"I know I said I'd pay you in 30 days, but that was just a rough estimate."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I know what an overactive thyroid is. Can you tell me what is meant by an overactive parathyroid?

Mr. B. N., N. J.

Dear Mr. N.:

Four pea-size parathyroid glands lie embedded in the thyroid gland, in the neck.

It is amazing that these small pieces of tissue can play such an important role in all body functions.

The parathyroids are part of an interweaving network of hormone-producing glands in the body. The thyroid, the parathyroid, the ovaries, the pituitary, the pineal, the adrenal and the testes are only a part of the complex network of endocrine, or hormone, glands.

Each has its own independent function, yet modifies the activity of all the others.

The most important function of the parathyroid glands is to keep in balance the relationship between the minerals of calcium and phosphorus.

Activity of the kidneys and the condition of the bones are thus affected. Overactivity of the parathyroid glands increases the amount of calcium that circulates in the bloodstream. Consequently, this mineral is taken out of the bones too rapidly and leaves them deficient in calcium.

With modern methods the exact cause of the "hyperparathyroidism" can be determined. In many instances, the metabolic balance can once again be established, either by medical treatment or by surgery.

I notice that when I eat solid, dry food it seems to get stuck in the back of my throat. There is no real pain. The feeling lasts until I wash it down with a lot of water. What causes this?

Miss R.V., Conn.

All food passes from the mouth into the esophagus, a delicate tube that leads to the stomach. Sometimes, insufficient saliva makes it difficult to swallow dry food.

Incidentally, saliva is the very first substance that starts the digestion of food. Sometimes, a narrowing of the esophagus or a pouch (diverticulum) may be present.

Spasm of the muscle that controls the opening to the esophagus may interfere also with the normal passage of food into the stomach. Dental problems, too, may be a factor.

It is rather simple to study by X-ray and special dyes the anatomical condition of the esophagus. This should be done so that you will be free from your anxiety and discomfort.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "Life will be better here for my children than for me," said President Ford, expressing in the State of the Union message a personal faith that some Americans have come to doubt.

"I believe this," he said, "not because I am told to believe it, but because life has been better for me than it was for my father and mother."

But some of today's parents have expressed doubts about the future. And many of the young too.

Many Americans who once could unhesitatingly make a statement similar to Ford's, now stop to think. They aren't as certain as the President that this is so. To them, this is the very issue rather than the certainty, the challenge rather than the promise.

Conflict, environmental deterioration, tax inequities, social friction, corruption, inflation and joblessness, and unresponsive institutions are among the problems that produce the doubts, and therefore become the issues.

Ford's approach is to slowly reduce the presence of the federal government in the economic affairs of the nation and instead stimulate private enterprise to provide the initiative and energy.

This is at the very core of his program, as described by him.

"We must introduce a new balance in the relationship between the individual and the government — a balance that favors greater individual freedom and self-reliance," the President said in his State of the Union message.

Critics inevitably comment that this is more of the same hopeful but shapeless design that led to so many of the inequities and problems we now have. This nation's wealth, the critics emphasize, does not spread itself equally or justly.

The presence of government, in fact, is attributed to this distributive inefficiency of the free enterprise system. In the interests of individual rights, involvement is necessary, the critics say.

The more conservative viewpoint is that the American dream, the assurance of material progress, was produced by self-reliant, free-spirited people.

Those who insist on justice through government activity don't always deny this, but they point to the existence of the issues themselves as proof that the American dream isn't always realized.

Ford's approach is to move slowly if necessary, to suffer problems while seeking fundamental changes, to watch the dollar bills closely, to pick and choose rather than to seek solutions to all problems at once.

This leaves room for his opponents to criticize. Going slowly, they observe, means unemployment remaining high for too many months. Fiscal conservatism means cutting programs that must be measured in human beings, not dollars.

To which Ford can reply: Government overspending is the very thing that produced the inflationary-recessionary mess that has prevailed throughout the 1970s, eroding buying power and throwing workers out of jobs.

Grand Jury Eyes Death Charges

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Licking County Prosecutor Neil Laughlin says a county grand jury will consider charges against four persons now being held by federal authorities in the kidnap-slaying of Detroit banker James Crawford.

The grand jury will convene at the end of January to consider the case against John S. Garside, 39, of Columbus; William Nabozny, 38, of Dearborn, Mich.; Chester S. Wysocki, 36, of Dearborn, Mich.; and Sharon Scheurell, 24, of Columbus.

The men are in federal custody on a charge of conspiracy to commit bank larceny through the use of a hostage. The woman is charged with being an accessory after the fact.

Thomas D. Thompson, an assistant U.S. attorney in Columbus, said Laughlin met with federal prosecutors this week to determine whether the trial would be held in Michigan or Ohio. Thompson said it appeared the trial would be in Newark if indictments were rendered by the grand jury.

Crawford was abducted in December as he arrived for work at a branch of the National Bank of Detroit where he was an assistant manager. His kidnapers demanded a ransom of $250,000 which was never paid.

His body was found six days later in Licking County on the side of a rural road.

Theda Bara, the first "vamp" of the silent films, arrived in Hollywood from Cincinnati where she was Theodosia Goodman.

Definitely Not Funday

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — A recent survey of a cross section of disgruntled Americans has revealed that:

- 1) The most unpopular day of the week is Monday, and;
- 2) The most disliked month of the year is January.

This means that, if you are typical, a day like today would make you feel like picking yourself up by the toes and despoiting the whole depressed and depressing bulk of you in the incinerator. The fact that you licked the mid-winter-Monday blues and have made it through the day (so far) indicates that you are a responsible person. Even, quite possibly, an optimist.

(Fortunately there is only one more January Monday in 1976, by the way — and by the way is where it should be left.)

Medical authorities have been too busy lately to theorize on why January Mondays bring out the flues and blues, the ouches and grouches, in so many persons, but it obviously is involved with weather conditions piggybacked with post-weekend exhaustion. A study of the mood patterns of college students confirmed that their "low periods" most frequently occur in the first half-hour of the day, on Mondays, and during the first three months of the year. And social scientists have reported that "clouds of gloom waft over individuals at surprisingly regular intervals . . . Only occasional psychotics do not suffer regular mood cycles."

The best defense against these moods is a good offense.

One woman I heard about, a householder who tired of waking up on Mondays with the weekend debris to be cleaned and the washing and the blue pall over all, decided to abolish "Monday thinking." In fact, she decided to drop Monday altogether. "I forced myself to hurry my husband off to work and the children off to school, and then I whipped out of the house to the hairdresser, went shopping, had lunch with a friend, and came home and read a book. Then on Tuesday, I got around to the chores. I didn't mind them so much on Tuesdays, because Tuesday is quite a different color."

Was she kidding herself? Of course. Sometimes it's the best procedure.

Psychologists would agree. On the philosophy that "whatever gets you through the day most adequately" is good, they often recommend that you plan ahead for those mood cycles that cause emotional or physical distress. Some people, for example, don't mind Mondays as much as they mind Fridays. Known sometimes as "pleasure neurotics," they actually dread release from the work week and suffer conscience pangs at the prospect of relaxing with family or friends. For such people, a Friday night game of cut-throat poker or chess or bridge is often the best plan. When a "pleasure neurotic" plays hard enough, he makes work of his leisure — thus assuaging his guilt, because he can rationalize that he is out to win, not to have a good time.

More normal, pleasure-loving people can fight their low mood cycles in more normal ways . . .

Set some of your blues time aside to think of the things you are not: eight months pregnant; having surgery on your birthday; in jail.

Call elderly or ill people and ask if you can help. Doing something for others, psychologists say, is the most depression-lifting activity conceivable.

If you can't help others, at least help yourself. Remember Bernard Shaw's warning, "The secret of being miserable is to have leisure to bother about whether you are happy or not." Remember Dr. Karl Menninger's theory, "The trouble with doing nothing is that you cannot rest from it." Get busy.

As a last resort, take a trip on a subway or bus and look around at the people and ask yourself, "Would I rather be him-her — or myself?" You may find, suddenly, that there are people with more pimples, more empty eyes, and infinitely more problems than your own.

You may even find that on a January Monday it is nice to be alive, and to be you . . .

Allen County Name Honored

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio believes it has traced part of its heritage to a Kentucky soldier and politician whose name is borne by Allen County, in the northwestern portion of the nation's 17th state.

Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, won approval Wednesday of a joint resolution, which now goes to the House, recognizing Lt. Col. John Allen, a former Kentucky state senator, as the man for whom the county was named.

White noted that the colonel, as commander of the First Kentucky Rifle Regiment, was killed at the Jan. 12, 1813 River Raisin Massacre in northwest Ohio — a bloody incident that became a rallying cry against the British.

"We believe that this county indeed was named after Col. John Allen," White told his Senate colleagues.

ALCOHOL: The New Teen-Age Turn-On

Peer Pressure Encourages Drinking

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
And BRIAN SULLIVAN
FOURTH IN A SERIES

Peer pressure is the Pied Piper of adolescence.

The piping now leads a sizeable parade to alcoholic drink.

"Kids pick up their drinking habits from parents, other adults and peer groups," meaning other kids, says Donald Phelps of the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

Parents and other adults might be good examples, but the other kids' peer group "tends to take risks with all the things in our environment. Not to go along with the crowd almost leads to ostracism. Kids spend an awful lot of time and effort trying to be like other kids."

Shy children may find that with a drink or two they become more relaxed, witty, spontaneous. And perhaps a very small percentage of teen-agers who early adopt the bottle are suicidal, seeing no great future in life. Or they may be using alcohol for other reasons of escape.

Peer pressure can lead to healthy, constructive behavior. Or sometimes to destructive behavior because it is not well-informed.

Teen years, for example, are a time of healthy, normal interest in sex and learning about sex. But many teen-agers are not aware that abuse of alcohol can interfere with sexual ability, says Dr. Frank Seixas of the National Council on Alcoholism. Teen-age boys usually have a keen interest in athletics, but may not know that alcohol demands a price in athletic skills, slowing reaction time, affecting nerves and muscles adversely.

In teen years, young people are learning for the first time what it means to manage themselves and their own lives, Dr. Seixas adds. But alcohol can rob them of this control over body and mind.

"Peers" may not know that mixing alcohol and drugs can be dangerous or even fatal. Sleeping pills taken with alcohol can kill. Antihistamines to relieve allergies often make one sleepy. Enhanced by alcohol, that can make a driver more dangerous.

"Out of sight, out of mind," the saying goes.

Thus the American middle class, whether in city, suburban or rural areas, paid little attention to the creeping horror of heroin or other drug addiction so long as it was confined to the ghettos and among the voiceless poor.

But, when their own children became involved, they reacted with shock, alarm, dismay and sometimes with hysteria.

Now their new concern is over-indulgence in alcohol. While accurate figures are lacking, some experts think it is more a problem the higher the family level of income and education.

"We've always blamed the individual alone for alcohol problems," says Dr. Morris Chafetz, an authority on alcoholism. "But the context, the social environment in which alcohol is placed, may be a greater push toward the alcohol problem than the individual."

"Many Americans drink liquor as they live life — rapidly and under tense circumstances." At cocktail parties and on commuter railroad bars, "the alcoholic beverage is gulped rapidly with the least minimum of food, and the general aim is to reach the desired end point of 'being high.' Even more significant is the fact that this pattern is condoned. In the United States, it is frequently all right to drink just for the purpose of getting drunk."

NEW YORK — A recent survey of a cross section of disgruntled Americans has revealed that:

- 1) The most unpopular day of the week is Monday; and

Today is Thursday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1976. There are 344 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, England came to the end of an era with the death of Queen Victoria at 82.

On this date—

In 1517, Turkish troops captured Cairo.

In 1528, England and France declared war on the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V.

In 1791, George Washington appointed commissioners to survey the District of Columbia.

In 1905, scores of Russians were killed as Cossacks and imperial army troops fired on demonstrators in St. Petersburg in Russia.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson proposed a League of Nations.

In 1944, during World War II, Allied troops landed on the Anzio beachhead in Italy.

Ten years ago: It was disclosed in Nigeria that Prime Minister Abubakar Tafawa Alewa was dead, apparently slain in a coup a week earlier.

Five years ago: Sixteen persons were missing and reported dead after explosions and fire destroyed an American-owned tanker off Sardinia in the Mediterranean.

One year ago: U.S. House of Representative Democrats ousted three Southern committee chairmen from their posts in the biggest setback in the seniority system in Congress in more than 50 years.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator Birch Bayh Jr. of Indiana is 48. Actress Ann Sothern is 65.

Thought for today: No man has a good enough memory to be a successful liar — President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, early in the American Revolution, the General Court in Watertown, Mass., passed an act excluding Indians, Negroes and mulattoes from enlisting in the militia.

Seek Clues In Slaying

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Police reported no leads today after a 69-year old west side widow was found murdered in her bed Tuesday.

The victim was discovered by Hamilton police and the victim's daughter-in-law.

Butler County Coroner Dr. Garrett J. Boone said Mrs. Violette L. Schisler, 69, had been assaulted and beaten. The unclothed body was found bound with venetian blind cords. Boone said the victim had been dead several days.

Mrs. Muriel Schisler, the daughter-in-law, was with police when the body was found around noon. Police Chief George McNally said the house, in which the victim lived alone, was not ransacked.

Neighbors called the victim's relatives after Mrs. Schisler had not been seen for several days.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I know what an overactive thyroid is. Can you tell me what is meant by an overactive parathyroid?

Mr. B. N., N. J.

Dear Mr. N.:

Four pea-size parathyroid glands lie embedded in the thyroid gland, in the neck.

It is amazing that these small pieces of tissue can play such an important role in all body functions.

The parathyroids are part of an interweaving network of hormone-producing glands in the body. The thyroid, the parathyroid, the ovaries, the pituitary, the pineal, the adrenal and the testes are only a part of the complex network of endocrine, or hormone, glands.

Each has its own independent function, yet modifies the activity of all the others.

The most important function of the parathyroid glands is to keep in balance the relationship between the minerals of calcium and phosphorus.

Activity of the kidneys and the condition of the bones are thus affected. Overactivity of the parathyroid glands increases the amount of calcium that circulates in the bloodstream. Consequently, this mineral is taken out of the bones too rapidly and leaves them deficient in calcium.

Business World

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "Life will be better here for my children than for me," said President Ford, expressing in the State of the Union message a personal faith that some Americans have come to doubt.

"I believe this," he said, "not because I am told to believe it, but because life has been better for me than it was for my father and mother."

But some of today's parents have expressed doubts about the future. And many of the young too.

Many Americans who once could unhesitatingly make a statement similar to Ford's, now stop to think. They aren't as certain as the President that this is so. To them, this is the very issue rather than the certainty, the challenge rather than the promise.

Conflict, environmental deterioration, tax inequities, social friction, corruption, inflation and joblessness, and unresponsive institutions are among the problems that produce the doubts, and therefore become the issues.

Ford's approach is to slowly reduce the presence of the federal government in the economic affairs of the nation and instead stimulate private enterprise to provide the initiative and energy.

This is at the very core of his program, as described by him. "We must introduce a new balance in the relationship between the individual and the government — a balance that favors greater individual freedom and self-reliance," the President said in his State of the Union message.

Critics inevitably comment that this is more of the same hopeful but shapeless design that led to so many of the inequities and problems we now have. This nation's wealth, the critics emphasize, does not spread itself equally or justly.

The presence of government, in fact, is attributed to this distributive inefficiency of the free enterprise system. In the interests of individual rights, involvement is necessary, the critics say.

The more conservative viewpoint is that the American dream, the assurance of material progress, was produced by self-reliance, free-spirited people.

Those who insist on justice through government activity don't always deny this, but they point to the existence of the issues themselves as proof that the American dream isn't always realized.

Ford's approach is to move slowly if necessary, to suffer problems while seeking fundamental changes, to

With modern methods the exact cause of the "hyperparathyroidism" can be determined. In many instances, the metabolic balance can once again be established, either by medical treatment or by surgery.

I notice that when I eat solid, dry food it seems to get stuck in the back of my throat. There is no real pain. The feeling lasts until I wash it down with a lot of water. What causes this?

Miss R.V., Conn.

Dear Miss V.: All food passes from the mouth into the esophagus, a delicate tube that leads to the stomach. Sometimes, insufficient saliva makes it difficult to swallow dry food.

Incidentally, saliva is the very first substance that starts the digestion of food. Sometimes, a narrowing of the esophagus or a pouch (diverticulum) may be present.

Spasm of the muscle that controls the opening to the esophagus may interfere also with the normal passage of food into the stomach. Dental problems, too, may be a factor.

It is rather simple to study by X-ray and special dyes the anatomical condition of the esophagus. This should be done so that you will be free from your anxiety and discomfort.

Grand Jury Eyes Death Charges

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Licking County Prosecutor Neil Laughlin says a county grand jury will consider charges against four persons now being held by federal authorities in the kidnap-slaying of Detroit banker James Crawford.

The grand jury will convene at the end of January to consider the case against John S. Garside, 39, of Columbus; William Nabozny, 38, of Dearborn, Mich.; Chester S. Wysocki, 36, of Dearborn, Mich., and Sharon Schreuler, 24, of Columbus.

The men are in federal custody on a charge of conspiracy to commit bank larceny through the use of a hostage. The woman is charged with being an accessory after the fact.

Thomas D. Thompson, an assistant U.S. attorney in Columbus, said Laughlin met with federal prosecutors this week to determine whether the trial should be held in Michigan or Ohio. Thompson said it appeared the trial would be in Newark if indictments were rendered by the grand jury.

Crawford was abducted in December as he arrived for work at a branch of the National Bank of Detroit where he was an assistant manager. His kidnapers demanded a ransom of $250,000 which was never paid.

His body was found six days later in Licking County on the side of a rural road.

Theda Bara, the first "vamp" of the silent films, arrived in Hollywood from Cincinnati where she was Theodosia Goodman.

5 WHS Students To Participate In Festival

Thirteen members of the Westfall High School music department will be among 1500 top high school musicians of Ohio for the 26th annual High School Music Festival conducted at Ohio Wesleyan University, Jan. 23-24.

The annual festival attempts to give young musicians an opportunity for musical experience with musicians and directors from outside their own locale, according to Dr. Darrell Wood, OWU associate professor of music and festival director.

Student participants are chosen on the basis of recommendations from their local music supervisors, and may participate in the Festival Band or Festival Choir. In addition, students who apply with taped auditions may be selected by OWU faculty for the Honors Band and Honors Choir.

Honors participants will arrive on campus Friday evening, Jan. 23, for a look around campus and the beginning of rehearsals. The majority of participants will arrive Saturday morning and spend the day in rehearsals and attending recitals and demonstrations by OWU music students.

At 7 p.m. Saturday, the entire group will join for the Festival Concert in Ohio Wesleyan's Gray Chapel. Each of the four groups will perform in the concert.

A highly acclaimed guest musician, Dr. Donald Hunsberger, will conduct the Honors Band (50 selected members) this year. Dr. Hunsberger holds his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester. He is conductor of the Eastman Wind Ensemble, is co-chairman of the Conducting and Ensemble Department at Eastman, and serves as executive secretary of the National Center for the Symphonic Wind Ensemble, which he founded at Eastman in 1973.

A former member of the U.S. Marine Band in Washington, Dr. Hunsberger became its first fulltime staff arranger in history, and also wrote numerous works for the Marine Band Orchestra for its White House and State Department engagements.

He has fulfilled many significant conducting assignments and been active in wind orchestras; his most popular arrangements include Shostakovich's "Festive Overture" for concert band, and J.S. Bach's "Passacaglia," and "Fugue in C minor," orchestrated for large symphonic wind ensembles.

Both the Honors Choir (90 selected voices) and the 1000-voice Festival Choir will be conducted by Gordon Almstead and Robert Nims, of the OWU music faculty. The Festival Band, with 150 members, will be conducted by Dr. Wood.

Selected to participate are: vocal, Cathy Cochran (honors); Cindy Riley, Crystal Cochenour, Teresa Wrightsels, Paula Vincent, Nancy Schein, Karen Cochran, Shirley East, Mark Kesler, Dan Horney and David Valone; instrumental, Vernon Elliott and Robert Rackham, both are honor group participants.

Ms. Patricia Beathard is the vocal instructor and James Kibby the instrumental instructor at Westfall High School.

EMT Completes 19 Calls In December

The Circleville Emergency Medical Team completed 19 emergency calls during the month of December.

All but six were in the Circleville Corporation limits. Five were to Circleville Twp. and one was to Wayne Twp.

Eight of the calls were for illness, four for accident, three for auto accidents, and three for cardiac patients. The vehicle traveled 169 miles, an average of 6.1 miles per run.

Fifty-three volunteer medics worked during the month, giving 987 volunteer hours. That's an average of 18.6 hours per volunteer.

Inflation Pain Eased During 1975

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose another five-tenths of a per cent in December, giving the nation an annual inflation rate of 7 per cent in 1975, the government said today. While high by historical standards, that was the best record in three years.

In 1974, consumer prices soared to a 28-year high of 12.2 per cent. They rose 8.8 per cent in 1973.

Ford administration officials are encouraged by the moderation of inflation last year and predict further improvement in 1976.

Although the rate of inflation slowed in 1975, it was still more than twice what Americans had been accustomed to during most of the post-World War II period when prices increased an average of 2 to 3 per cent a year.

Consumer prices rose seven-tenths of 1 per cent in November.

Inflation as measured by the consumer price index had been increasing an average of 2-to-3 per cent a year through much of the post-World War II period before prices gained momentum in the late 1960s.

Ford administration officials are encouraged by the moderation of inflation last year and predict further improvement this year.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, says consumer prices are expected to rise about 6 per cent this year.

"Improvement will come slowly, but I do think it's going to occur," he said. "The economic recovery now underway is a steady, solid recovery, but probably not one conducive to a resurgence of inflation."

He cited the improvement in wholesale prices over the past two months, and said this is likely to result in smaller grocery bills. Wholesale prices declined in December after showing no change the previous month.

Another factor helping to hold down prices is that demand is not strong. A number of companies that raised prices in recent months rolled them back when sales failed to pick up, Pate noted.

The consumer price report followed Thursday's Commerce Department announcement that both inflation and economic growth as measured by the Gross National Product slowed substantially in the fourth quarter.

The GNP increased at an annual rate of 5.4 per cent during October through December, less than half the 12 per cent rate of increase in the third quarter.

Inflation, as measured by GNP, was at a rate of 6.5 per cent in the fourth quarter, down from 7.1 per cent in the third quarter.

The GNP measures the total output of goods and services in the economy and is a basic barometer of economic health.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Sharon Dresses Down Man

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Prefers Skirts," who wants to determine dress for all the women in the world:

Thanks to you and your kind, Buddy, 100 million American women are learning the following things: Any woman not physically handicapped is strong enough to open a door and move a chair. Waitresses should be paid a living wage by their employers and not to depend on the generosity of the customer as if waitresses were performing dogs rewarded with bits of food.

We are also learning that all the "gentlemanly courtesies" you extend

(when you are in the mood) are not worth 60 per cent pay differential, and that when we earn our own money with our own labor, we can pay our own bills and maintain our self-respect as adult human beings (commonly known as "feeling like a man.")

And meditate on this for a little while, pal: One hundred million American women get dressed up every single day without giving one second's thought to how you feel about their outfits.

Feel free, Abby, to use my name. SHARON S. MILLER, DETROIT, MICH.

DEAR ABBY: "Prefers Skirts" who refuses to tip a waitress in trousers has got to be some kind of nut.

In the first place, the boss decides what the employees shall wear.

I'm a 26-year-old mother of two who applied for a job as a cocktail waitress in a supper club.

The hours were fine and so was the pay, but when I saw the costume I had to wear, I told the boss I was applying for a job as a cocktail waitress — not a striptease dancer. Needless to say, I didn't take that job.

I'm not putting down waitresses who work in such costumes. If they're hungry enough, they'll wear them. Thank heavens, I wasn't.

MODEST IN HAWAII
DEAR ABBY: I am one of those lucky women who has always looked ten years younger than my age. Consequently, when I got into my 40's I started lying about my age.

Not only did I lie to my friends about my age, I also lied to my doctor, which has been costing me money.

You see, I recently went into a hospital and didn't want to admit my real age, so I didn't use my Social Security Medicare card, and I had to pay for everything myself. (The same with my doctor bill.)

How can I overcome this feeling of embarrassment about my real age?

LOOKS YOUNG

DEAR LOOKS: Look at it this way: A person who looks younger than his age has something of which to be proud, so why not admit it!

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.M. IN SAN FRANCISCO: If you have used your husband's surname but wish to revert to your maiden name, regardless of your marital status, in the state of California it is NOT necessary to go to court.

5 WHS Students To Participate In Festival

Thirteen members of the Westfall High School music department will be among 1500 top high school musicians of Ohio for the 26th annual High School Music Festival conducted at Ohio Wesleyan University, Jan. 23-24.

The annual festival attempts to give young musicians an opportunity for musical experience with musicians and directors from outside their own locale, according to Dr. Darrell Wood, OWU associate professor of music and festival director.

Student participants are chosen on the basis of recommendations from their local music supervisors, and may participate in the Festival Band or Festival Choir. In addition, students who apply with taped auditions may be selected by OWU faculty for the Honors Band and Honors Choir.

Honors participants will arrive on campus Friday evening, Jan. 23, for a look around campus and the beginning of rehearsals. The majority of participants will arrive Saturday morning and spend the day in rehearsals and attending recitals and demonstrations by OWU music students.

At 7 p.m. Saturday, the entire group will join for the Festival Concert in Ohio Wesleyan's Gray Chapel. Each of the four groups will perform in the concert.

A highly acclaimed guest musician, Dr. Donald Hunsberger, will conduct the Honors Band (50 selected members) this year. Dr. Hunsberger holds his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester. He is conductor of the Eastman Wind Ensemble, is co-chairman of the Conducting and Ensemble Department at Eastman, and serves as executive secretary of the National Center for the Symphonic Wind Ensemble, which he founded at Eastman in 1973.

A former member of the U.S. Marine Band in Washington, Dr. Hunsberger became its first fulltime staff arranger in history, and also wrote numerous works for the Marine Band Orchestra for its White House and State Department engagements.

He has fulfilled many significant conducting assignments and been active in wind orchestras: his most popular arrangements include Shostakovich's "Festive Overture" for concert band, and J.S. Bach's "Passacaglia," and "Fugue in C minor," orchestrated for large symphonic wind ensembles.

Both the Honors Choir (90 selected voices) and the 1000-voice Festival Choir will be conducted by Gordon Almstead and Robert Nims, of the OWU music faculty. The Festival Band, with 150 members, will be conducted by Dr. Wood.

Selected to participate are: vocal, Cathy Cochran (honors); Cindy Riley, Crystal Cochran, Teresa Wrightsels, Paula Vincent, Nancy Schein, Karen Cochran, Shirley East, Mark Kesler, Dan Horney and David Valone; instrumental, Vernon Elliott and Robert Rackham, both are honor group participants.

Ms. Patricia Beathard is the vocal instructor and James Kibby the instrumental instructor at Westfall High School.

EMT Completes 19 Calls In December

The Circleville Emergency Medical Team completed 19 emergency calls during the month of December.

All but six were in the Circleville Corporation limits. Five were to Circleville Twp. and one was to Wayne Twp.

Eight of the calls were for illness, four for accident, three for auto accidents, and three for cardiac patients.

The vehicle traveled 169 miles, an average of 6.1 miles per run. Fifty-three volunteer medics worked during the month, giving 987 volunteer hours. That's an average of 18.6 hours per volunteer.

Inflation Pain Eased During 1975

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose another five-tenths of a per cent in December, giving the nation an annual inflation rate of 7 per cent in 1975, the government said today. While high by historical standards, that was the best record in three years.

In 1974, consumer prices soared to a 28-year high of 12.2 per cent. They rose 8.8 per cent in 1973.

Ford administration officials are encouraged by the moderation of inflation last year and predict further improvement in 1976.

Although the rate of inflation slowed in 1975, it was still more than twice what Americans had been accustomed to during most of the post-World War II period when prices increased an average of 2 to 3 per cent a year.

Consumer prices rose seven-tenths of 1 per cent in November.

Inflation as measured by the consumer price index had been increasing an average of 2-to-3 per cent a year through much of the post-World War II period before prices gained momentum in the late 1960s.

Ford administration officials are encouraged by the moderation of inflation last year and predict further improvement this year.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, says consumer prices are expected to rise about 6 per cent this year.

"Improvement will come slowly, but I do think it's going to occur," he said. "The economic recovery now underway is a steady, solid recovery, but probably not one conducive to a resurgence of inflation."

He cited the improvement in wholesale prices over the past two months, and said this is likely to result in smaller grocery bills. Wholesale prices declined in December after showing no change the previous month.

Another factor helping to hold down prices is that demand is not strong. A number of companies that raised prices in recent months rolled them back when sales failed to pick up, Pate noted.

The consumer price report followed Thursday's Commerce Department announcement that both inflation and economic growth as measured by the Gross National Product slowed substantially in the fourth quarter.

The GNP increased at an annual rate of 5.4 per cent during October through December, less than half the 12 per cent rate of increase in the third quarter.

Inflation, as measured by GNP, was at a rate of 6.5 per cent in the fourth quarter, down from 7.1 per cent in the third quarter.

The GNP measures the total output of goods and services in the economy and is a basic barometer of economic health.

SERTOMA SPEAKER — Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, left, was the featured speaker at Tuesday's Pickaway Plains Sertoma Club meeting. Pictured with him is Sertoma Wayne Frazier. Special awards were given to Tom Wolfe, Charles Carle, John Steinhauer, Jim Mapes, Doyle Calvert, and Mike Griffith for perfect first-year attendance. Honorable mention was accorded Dan Davis, Bob Mabe, and Don Reams for a 92 per cent attendance record.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Sharon Dresses Down Man

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Prefers Skirts," who wants to determine dress for all the women in the world:

Thanks to you and your kind, Buddy, 100 million American women are learning the following things: Any woman not physically handicapped is strong enough to open a door and move a chair. Waitresses should be paid a living wage by their employers and not to depend on the generosity of the customer as if waitresses were performing dogs rewarded with bits of food.

We are also learning that all the "gentlemanly courtesies" you extend

(when you are in the mood) are not worth 60 per cent pay differential, and that when we earn our own money with our own labor, we can pay our own bills and maintain our self-respect as adult human beings (commonly known as "feeling like a man.")

And meditate on this for a little while, pal: One hundred million American women get dressed up every single day without giving one second's thought to how you feel about their outfits.

Feel free, Abby, to use my name. SHARON S. MILLER, DETROIT, MICH.

DEAR ABBY: "Prefers Skirts" who refuses to tip a waitress in trousers has got to be some kind of nut.

In the first place, the boss decides what the employees shall wear.

I'm a 26-year-old mother of two who applied for a job as a cocktail waitress in a supper club.

The hours were fine and so was the pay, but when I saw the costume I had to wear, I told the boss I was applying for a job as a cocktail waitress — not a striptease dancer. Needless to say, I didn't take that job.

I'm not putting down waitresses who work in such costumes. If they're hungry enough, they'll wear them. Thank heavens, I wasn't.

MODEST IN HAWAII

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those lucky women who has always looked ten years younger than my age. Consequently, when I got into my 40's I started lying about my age.

Not only did I lie to my friends about my age, I also lied to my doctor, which has been costing me money.

You see, I recently went into a hospital and didn't want to admit my real age, so I didn't use my Social Security Medicare card, and I had to pay for everything myself. (The same with my doctor bill.)

How can I overcome this feeling of embarrassment about my real age?

LOOKS YOUNG
DEAR LOOKS: Look at it this way: A person who looks younger than his age has something of which to be proud, so why not admit it!

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.M. IN SAN FRANCISCO: If you have used your husband's surname but wish to revert to your maiden name, regardless of your marital status, in the state of California it is NOT necessary to go to court.

Rolls-Royce Back From Bankruptcy

LONDON (AP) — Soaring fuel costs have made the big prestige car an extravagance few can afford. But Rolls-Royce, the most prestigious of them all, has just had one of the best years in its seven-decade history.

Stressing handcrafted quality and catering to an expanding export market, especially in the United States and Middle East, the makers of Rolls-Royce cars survived bankruptcy in 1971 and have become the envy of the British auto industry.

With the possible exception of the British subsidiary of Ford Motor Co., which reported a small profit for 1974 and may do the same for 1975, Rolls-Royce is the only auto manufacturer making any money here.

While such carmakers as British Leyland and Chrysler U.K. expected record losses and struggled to stay afloat in a time of slack demand for autos, Rolls-Royce Motor Holdings, Ltd., indicated that last year's earnings, when reported in April, could be above 1974's net profit of almost $4.5 million.

One reason was an increase of exports to the oil-rich Middle East, where the company's car sales rose to more than 100 last year, up from 72 in 1974 and just 27 in 1973. But the company made clear the United States will continue to be its major single export market.

"There just aren't that many princes and sheiks in the Middle East," one company official said. "But you can go to the San Diego Yacht Club and find 500 people with $200,000 boats. All of them can afford our car."

Rolls-Royce sold a record 860 cars in the United States last year, 21 per cent more than in 1974.

Another reason for Rolls-Royce's success is its worldwide reputation for excellence, carefully nurtured since Frederick Henry Royce, an engineer, teamed up in 1904 with the Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls, an aristocrat and pioneering racing driver, to build the first Rolls-Royce.

Since then Rolls-Royce has turned out more than 70,000 cars and claims more than half of them are still in running order. A new one currently costs the equivalent of between $30,000 and $60,000.

"A hand-made pair of shoes may cost three times as much to buy as a mass-produced pair but will last four times as long," says Chairman Ian J. Fraser, who was a foreign correspondent in the 1940s and 1950s for the British News Agency Reuters.

Last year, Rolls-Royce produced and sold 3,134 cars, about the number that British Leyland could turn out in a day. That was Rolls-Royce's most productive year to date, topping the 1974 total of 2,902 cars, and nearly 60 per cent of last year's production was exported.

The company's car exports rose in value to the equivalent of $44.8 million in 1975, up 51 per cent from the $29.6 million of car exports recorded a year earlier.

Early Ohio Settlers Fade Into History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Historians of early Ohio liked to dwell on the wild, unmapped, dark and forested wilderness that was the land west of the Appalachian Mountains in the troubled decades before and during the Revolutionary War. They called it "a silent, somber land without history and without memory except for tales of explorers and traders—all its traditions were yet to come."

Treaties with the Indians had banned settlement west of the mountains at various periods dating from the 1600's. Organized settlement under law did not begin until 1788 with the founding of Marietta by the Ohio Company.

But the first settlers in Ohio—disregarding traders with their Indian wives and the Moravian missionaries—were squatters.

Some historians claimed these squatters were a constant menace to relations with the Indians, and by the Treaty of Fort McIntosh in 1785 those squatters who settled beyond the boundary agreed upon were outlaws and made subject to Indian vengeance.

One officer cleared some of the families from the north bank of the Ohio River with considerable difficulty. He reported that 600 families were settled on the Hocking and Muskingum rivers; that 1,500 persons were living on the Scioto and Miami rivers.

Some of these dispossessed squatters returned to become permanent settlers, later securing legal titles from land companies or individual owners of large tracts.

Most historians have not dealt too kindly with these courageous people. A few called them the vanguard of Ohio's progress, or "American Vikings," scattered in rude log huts along the Ohio as far south as Marietta and up the Muskingum and other rivers.

"Their number and their names," said one more sympathetic writer, "will never be known—history forgot to mention them, and society has neglected to erect a single monument to their unquestioned courage and vision."

Harris Urges Breakup Of Big Companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Fred Harris advocates price controls on the oil, steel and automobile industries as the way to fight inflation while he seeks to break up the nation's largest corporations.

Harris contends that America's largest industries have monopolistic power, and he says he would seek to split them apart for the sake of economic competition and to curb consumer prices. He claims that heightened competition would put to work marketplace forces that would curb prices and lead to more production and more jobs.

Harris proposes a mix of antitrust action, government price ceilings and public service jobs as his answer to economic woes. The plan is couched in general, theoretical terms. It does not include specific revenue-raising proposals to cover projected spending to create jobs or the other economic programs he wants to introduce.

Harris said if he becomes president he will ask Congress for the power to control prices — but not wages.

Government figures show that between November 1973 and November 1975 the consumer price index rose by 20.3 per cent while average hourly wages went up 16.1 per cent.

Harris claims those statistics are evidence that wage controls would not be needed.

Yet under his plan, there would be no limits on what unions could demand in wages from industries whose prices would be government-controlled.

The former Oklahoma senator, making his second bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, also said if he succeeds, his administration would go after "shared monopolies" by challenging them in court and by seeking new antitrust laws.

He defines a shared monopoly as a situation in which four or fewer corporations control 70 per cent of an industry.

He also attacks oil companies that control gasoline production from the well to the service station pump. Harris contends if different companies controlled the various stages of production, the resulting competition would inevitably drive down prices.

The oil companies would also be prevented from controlling production of competing fuels such as coal, Harris said, and that also would tend to lower prices.

Harris said in an interview that there should be a $28-billion tax cut in 1976, but only for individual taxpayers, not for businesses.

That would be $15 billion higher than the break individual taxpayers are getting this year. Harris said he would offset the cut by imposing higher taxes on large corporations and on the wealthy, but neither he nor his advisers could spell out specific measures or their potential revenues.

"We have one-third idle plant capacity, primarily because consumers don't have enough money," Harris said. "A tax cut is particularly necessary now to offset new price increases which otherwise would take money out of the economy and further slow recovery."

Harris said temporary price controls on some industries are needed until price competition is restored.

"In our economy," he said, "unemployment does not tend to bring down prices, it tends to force them up.... Because of monopoly control, industries such as the automobile industry are allowed to act to the detriment of both workers and consumers and, in the face of falling demand, lay off workers and reduce production, but make up for lost profits by increased prices consumers must pay."

Harris said his restructuring of the economy would eventually lower the unemployment rate. He says that as the economy reacts to increased competition, prices will decline. In addition, he says, consumers will have more spending money in hand because of tax cuts. Harris says increased demand for lower priced consumer products will lead to increased production and more jobs.

For those still unemployed, Harris would establish a permanent reservoir of two million locally controlled public service jobs in health care, day care centers, transportation and environmental clean-up projects at an estimated annual cost of $6.4 billion.

"We ought to commit the country to full employment and mean it," he said.

Electric Use Doubling Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio utilities have told the Ohio Power Siting Commission that electric energy consumption will nearly double in the next 10 years.

The commission said the reports also show that utilities continue to revise downward their estimates of total amount of energy required to meet demand. The commission said the companies, as a group, predict 8.1 per cent less energy will be consumed in 1984 than they forecast in 1974.

It said that despite the forecast there will be enough generating capacity to meet needs of Ohio citizens.

Harris Urges Breakup Of Big Companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Fred Harris advocates price controls on the oil, steel and automobile industries as the way to fight inflation while he seeks to break up the nation's largest corporations.

Harris contends that America's largest industries have monopolistic power, and he says he would seek to split them apart for the sake of economic competition and to curb consumer prices. Harris said if he becomes president he will ask Congress for the power to control prices — but not wages.

Government figures show that between November 1973 and November 1975 the consumer price index rose by 20.3 per cent while average hourly wages went up 16.1 per cent.

"We ought to commit the country to full employment and mean it," he said.

The Harris economic plan is without specific proposals for financing the measures he wants to take.

For example, Harris has no proposal for financing his jobs program, saying only that revenues will increase when the economy picks up.

Harris maintains that over-all there would be little net increase in federal expenses under his proposals because higher spending would be offset by increased tax revenues as the economic situation improves and people get back to work.

That is a common theme among Democrats, who base it on estimates that each one percent of unemployment costs the government $15 billion in lost revenues and increased social welfare costs.

But that theme remains a theory without proof in practice. And conservative economists along with Republican critics say job spending programs like those Harris advocates would not pay for themselves but would simply rekindle high inflation.

On energy, Harris said, "By law, we ought to say that these automobile companies no longer can make or sell new cars which average less than 22 miles to the gallon."

Julie Visits Ohio As Designer

CINCINNATI (AP)—While Julie Nixon Eisenhower's father was in the White House, it was a struggle to stay out of the spotlight.

Now the oldest daughter of former President Nixon is back in a spotlight of her own — smaller of course — which lights up her newest career as a designer of embroidery.

She is currently on tour promoting a line of "Julie's Stitchery," an avocation to which she was introduced by her mother-in-law Mamie Eisenhower.

It's not that she enters the world of design as an unknown. The two names Nixon and Eisenhower are instant calling cards, but she isn't about to de-emphasize either that she is the daughter of a former president.

She says she is constantly made aware of her parentage when she first is introduced to people who either love or hate her father.

"That is one of the realities that you have to face when your father was in office," she said. "Still I consider it an honor to be the daughter of a president and I'm proud of his accomplishments."

"When I'm introduced to people they often judge me first because of how they feel about my father, but later when they know me, they begin to judge me for myself."

It's her own accomplishments that she's talking about nowadays. In addition to her needlework, Mrs. Eisenhower recently returned from a trip to China, has done some radio and television interviews and many speeches, with her favorite topics being women in government and volunteerism.

She admits that she could not attempt to start a career while her father was in the White House because of charges of commercialism, but her father's resignation also freed her from another burden.

"You don't know what a relief it is not to worry about having secret service around you all the time," she laughed. "For awhile, I couldn't believe they were not there any more."

"At first, I was almost ready to pick up the phone and tell them, 'I'm going to the grocery or I'm going to the drug store,' but then I remembered I didn't have to do that anymore."

"For a year after my father left the White House, I felt like a new person. Now I'm trying to live like everyone else."

Mrs. Eisenhower says her parents are taking a keen interest in her new career, and although an invitation to a news conference, asks that questions be restricted to the promotion of "Julie's Stitchery," she does not shy away from questions about her father.

"I call him every two days or every day, depending on what I'm doing," she said. "When I called home and said I was in Cincinnati, my dad reminded me that I was near where the disaster took place in Xenia. He likes to know where I am and what I'm doing."

"He spends most of his time working on his book, and because it is an election year, I think he's going to stay in the background because he feels it would be better. We just try to live from day-to-day, do you know what I mean?"

Hunger Problems In State Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Dayton lawmaker's proposal for a study on the problems of hunger in Ohio is the first hint of any concrete effort to implement a 1974 state Democratic platform promise for a renewal of the war on poverty.

Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, wants General Assembly researchers to find out why government and private programs have failed to assure that Ohio citizens have enough nutritious food to eat. He claims 14 Democratic cosponsors for the resolution.

A state party platform adopted on Sept. 15, in the heat of the 1974 campaign, declared:

"We remember President Johnson's War on Poverty and the Republican administration's loss of the war, without honor. We strongly urge the rekindling of the war on poverty on both the federal and state levels."

The platform was written with the expectation that former Gov. John J. Gilligan would be re-elected and use the executive branch to spearhead state-level programs.

Democratic majorities in the Senate and House have failed to rally around any single program resembling the platform promise for action.

Orlett admits the platform was not his inspiration but says his proposal would serve the same purpose.

"The concept of the War on Poverty is one that the Democratic party still adheres to," he said. "If we're going to fight the War Against Poverty in the 70s, we're going to have to use the weapons of the 70s."

Orlett's resolution would direct the Legislative Study Commission, the assembly's research arm, to evaluate "current state and local programs to combat hunger and help low income families to use food budgets wisely."

The study would not be limited to a collection of statistics, Orlett said, but would include "an inventory of possible additional or alternative programs which might more effectively eliminate hunger completely within the state."

According to the Orlett resolution: "Inflation and recession have combined to aggravate the problem of malnutrition as the price of meat, fresh fruits and vegetables and other elements of a well-balanced diet continues to rise, forcing many families to sacrifice needed nutritional foods and even to eat pet foods in some cases."

The problem then, Orlett said, is not so much one of starvation but rather lack of adequate nutrition in the diets of the poor.

The resolution was referred to the House Rules Committee, which later in the session will sift through all requests for legislative studies and refer some for a floor vote.

If Orlett's proposal is approved, the study commission would be directed to report its findings before the end of the year.

Magnet-School Plan Falters

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A magnet-school program aimed at overcoming segregation in the public schools is suffering from diminishing enrollment.

During the first semester of the program 259 students who had signed up to take courses in schools other than their own dropped out.

Students are bused from their home schools two days a week to take courses not available at their home schools.

Principals at the four elementary schools which house the magnet programs say parents have withdrawn their children because the students miss work in their home schools.

William Stolle, executive director of elementary education, said a program was instituted in which teachers will help students at the magnets with their work from the home school.

If a student is having difficulty with a subject at the home school, caused by attending the magnet, then a half hour each day will be set aside for special instruction, Stolle said.

Enrollment at the two high schools with magnet programs was disappointingly low, school officials said. At Roth High School, where a communications program is located, 22 students started the semester. Now there are 18 students.

Dunbar High School, which houses a computer program, started with 93 students and now has 61.

The third high school magnet, an academic program at the YMCA, started with 253 students and now is down to 246.

Judith Curran, curriculum supervisor for secondary schools, said students withdrew from the magnet program because "It was too difficult and there were scheduling conflicts."

"If we don't get to go next year, then we won't get any credit," said Sheryl Hollon, 12, a seventh grade student who attends a language course magnet.

Students must have at least two years of a language before they can get any credit for their studies.

It is uncertain whether there will be any magnet program next year because it is part of a desegregation plan overturned by a federal court.

Shapp Pushes FDR-Like Program

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Milton J. Shapp is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination on a platform calling for investments of billions of dollars in education, urban renewal and railroad rebuilding. He does not have price tags for most of the proposals, but says he would pay the bills by increasing the federal debt, levying special fees and imposing an income tax surcharge.

The two-term, 63-year-old governor said the cornerstone of his plan is a change in the federal budgeting system. Shapp would have an annual operating budget and a separate long-term investment budget.

Everyday costs — including welfare, the military, criminal justice, unemployment compensation and some government departments — would be financed from the operating budget.

Other items, including some now listed as operating expenses, would be financed from the long-term investment budget. This budget would cover items like slum clearance, energy research, education, railroad modernization, sewer construction, land cleanup and housing.

Shapp has not said how big either of his budgets would be. But he said the operating budget always would be balanced because "many of the present outlays contained in our administration's budget would be transferred into the long-term investment budget."

The governor said he could not estimate the total investment cost. He proposed two specific programs — a $13 billion railroad modernization plan and a $50 billion-a-year education program.

Shapp said the initial financing for all the investment programs would have to come from borrowing, a plan he said would increase the national debt temporarily. He said the programs eventually would pay for themselves through "user fees" and increased tax revenues stemming from the full-employment economy his plan is designed to achieve. He could not say how long it would take for this to happen.

Shapp denied that items like an increased national debt and special surcharges would be inflationary, because he said they are only a part of his total program. He said any impact must be measured in terms of the whole, but he could not provide details because he is still working to complete most of the individual segments.

The $50 billion-a-year education investment, more than six times what the federal government spends now, would cover everything from preschool to graduate school, Shapp said. The federal share of the education dollar would rise from the current 10 per cent to 50 per cent, the state share would remain at 33 per cent and the local and private share (including tuition) would drop from 57 to 17 per cent.

Shapp said the cut in local education spending would permit the elimination of property taxes for school systems — possibly in seven to 10 years. He also said increased federal aid would let colleges cut tuition.

The federal investment would be financed by a tax boost affecting all Americans between the ages of 25 and 64 who work and pay federal income taxes. Shapp had no figures on what part of the population would be involved, but Census Bureau figures show that as of 1970, 44 per cent of Americans fell into the specified age group.

Julie Visits Ohio As Designer

CINCINNATI (AP)—While Julie Nixon Eisenhower's father was in the White House, it was a struggle to stay out of the spotlight.

Now the oldest daughter of former President Nixon is back in a spotlight of her own — smaller of course — which lights up her newest career as a designer of embroidery.

She is currently on tour promoting a line of "Julie's Stitchery," an avocation to which she was introduced by her mother-in-law Mamie Eisenhower.

It's not that she enters the world of design as an unknown. The two names Nixon and Eisenhower are instant calling cards, but she isn't about to emphasize either that she is the daughter of a former president.

She says she is constantly made aware of her parentage when she first is introduced to people who either love or hate her father.

"That is one of the realities that you have to face when your father was in office," she said. "Still I consider it an honor to be the daughter of a president and I'm proud of his accomplishments."

"When I'm introduced to people they often judge me first because of how they feel about my father, but later when they know me, they begin to judge me for myself."

It's her own accomplishments that she's talking about nowadays. In addition to her needlework, Mrs. Eisenhower recently returned from a trip to China, has done some radio and television interviews and many speeches, with her favorite topics being women in government and volunteerism.

Hunger Problems In State Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Dayton lawmaker's proposal for a study on the problems of hunger in Ohio is the first hint of any concrete effort to implement a 1974 state Democratic platform promise for a renewal of the war on poverty.

Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, wants General Assembly researchers to find out why government and private programs have failed to assure that Ohio citizens have enough nutritious food to eat. He claims 14 Democratic cosponsors for the resolution.

A state party platform adopted on Sept. 15, in the heat of the 1974 campaign, declared:

"We remember President Johnson's War on Poverty and the Republican administration's loss of the war, without honor. We strongly urge the rekindling of the war on poverty on both the federal and state levels."

The platform was written with the expectation that former Gov. John J. Gilligan would be re-elected and use the executive branch to spearhead state-level programs.

Democratic majorities in the Senate and House have failed to rally around any single program resembling the platform promise for action.

Orlett admits the platform was not his inspiration but says his proposal would serve the same purpose.

"The concept of the War on Poverty is one that the Democratic party still adheres to," he said. "If we're going to fight the War Against Poverty in the 70s, we're going to have to use the weapons of the 70s."

Orlett's resolution would direct the Legislative Study Commission, the assembly's research arm, to evaluate "current state and local programs to combat hunger and help low income families to use food budgets wisely."

The study would not be limited to a collection of statistics, Orlett said, but would include "an inventory of possible additional or alternative programs which might more effectively eliminate hunger completely within the state."

According to the Orlett resolution: "Inflation and recession have combined to aggravate the problem of malnutrition as the price of meat, fresh fruits and vegetables and other elements of a well-balanced diet continues to rise, forcing many families to sacrifice needed nutritional foods and even to eat pet foods in some cases."

The problem then, Orlett said, is not so much one of starvation but rather lack of adequate nutrition in the diets of the poor.

The resolution was referred to the House Rules Committee, which later in the session will sift through all requests for legislative studies and refer some for a floor vote.

If Orlett's proposal is approved, the study commission would be directed to report its findings before the end of the year.

Cincy Police Scandal Escalates

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two police helicopter traffic officers accused suspended Cincinnati Police Chief Carl V. Goodin of taking money from them for his personal use, Hamilton County prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. said Wednesday.

Other officers were accused of soliciting prostitutes for unnamed high ranking officers, Leis added.

The information was presented to Hamilton County Common Pleas Court in bills of particulars requested by defense attorneys for Goodin and six indicted members of the vice squad. All the officers were suspended following return of indictments and all denied the charges.

The bills, containing information for the indictments by a special Hamilton County grand jury, also indicated that prostitutes were procured by police for unnamed high ranking police officers. The tape also said three officers were recorded on police video tape soliciting bottles of liquor in a bookmaking establishment under surveillance. The tape was later destroyed by Lt. Richard K. Beyer, vice squad head, the prosecution report said.

No trial dates have been set for the indicted officers. The Cincinnati Civil Service Commission Wednesday announced that separate hearings for six officers will be held. All but the chief had applied for reinstatement of pay while suspended.

The report said Capt. Robert J. Heinlein, who was employed by WKRC, and Lt. James Stanley, WLW, testified Goodin ordered them in August, 1971, to pay him $20 per week to keep their assignments. Goodin accepted $15 from each after they balked. The officers told the grand jury that Goodin said the money, which totaled $6,300, would go to a "slush fund" for visiting police dignitaries and police entertainment expenses.

The report said Goodin made a false statement to the grand jury Dec. 17, 1975, when he said he never told the men where the money was to go.

The report accused Beyer submitted a false set of figures about an informant's fund accounting for the money from the traffic broadcasters. Vice Squad officer James Simon was also charged with perjury when he said he disbursed the cash to informants.

Vice squad officer Roger Hummendorf obtained two prostitutes June 18, 1971, from the Tender Trap bar in suburban Roselawn for two high ranking officers and promised operator William Poulos protection from possible law violations, the report said.

A similar procuring charge involved similar incidents in 1970 and 1971 with Hummendorf and Hustler Bar and magazine operator Larry Flynt and an employee, Flora Griffith, the report said.

Simon and his civilian brother David were charged with theft of $340 and procuring involving a prostitute for a customer at a downtown hotel.

Officers Raymond Easterling, William Hawthorne and Sgt. Urban Ebert were video taped inside a "known bookmaking establishment" by District 1 officers soliciting a bottle of liquor each, the report said. The officers were charged with soliciting bribes.

Summer Fuel Cuts Announced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Summer fuel cuts have been announced for industrial and commercial customers of Columbia Gas of Ohio, but no changes are seen at this time in current winter fuel curtailment levels.

Ohio Manufacturers Association representative William Costello said there was no way to tell at this point what effect, if any, the summer curtailments might have on industrial employment. He said association members had just received their notifications from Columbia.

The company on Wednesday advised 1,130 curtailed industrial customers in Ohio that all industrial loads of a million cubic feet or more per month that can be augmented by alternate fuels can anticipate 50 per cent curtailment starting April 1 and ending Oct. 31. Currently these loads are being curtailed 20 per cent.

The company also announced a curtailment program for last summer, but warm spring weather and newly available supplies combined to allow the firm to cancel that program.

Summer curtailment levels are expected to remain at 100 per cent for industrial boiler loads of a million cubic feet or more a month and 10 per cent for nonsubstitutable industrial loads of one million cubic feet or more a month.

Columbia Gas president Marvin E. White said the curtailment level for any specific industrial customer will depend on how much gas that customer uses in each of the three categories.

The 1,320 commercial customers that use one million cubic feet or more of gas per month will be cut 15 per cent during the summer months, he said, the maximum permitted. These customers currently are being curtailed 20 per cent.

White said the projections announced for the remainder of the winter and for April through October are based on the best data available to the firm at this time. He cautioned that Columbia's supply situation is under constant review and subject to change at any time.

White said Columbia's projections were based on several factors, including area temperatures, economic conditions that alter industrial requirements, conservation by customers and changes in available gas supply. "About the only thing we can be certain of at this time," he said, "is that some of these variables will change between now and Oct. 31."

White said the levels being announced for the substitutable load next summer are considerably lower than those needed to offset calculated supply deficiencies but include assumptions based on past experience and estimates as to economic conditions and anticipated underruns by industries and other variables.

"If these assumptions do not develop, it may necessitate increases in curtailment during the remainder of the seven month period," he said.

The summer projections do not take into account potential emergency purchases of Southwest gas similar to those that enabled Columbia to reduce industrial and commercial curtailment and the accompanying threat of gas related unemployment this winter.

"At this time," White said, "Columbia does not know whether or not it will be able to make emergency purchases next summer, whether gas will be available, or available at an acceptable price."

Cincy Police Scandal Escalates

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two police helicopter traffic officers accused suspended Cincinnati Police Chief Carl V. Goodin of taking money from them for his personal use, Hamilton County prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. said Wednesday.

Other officers were accused of soliciting prostitutes for unnamed high ranking officers, Leis added.

The information was presented to

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court in bills of particulars requested by defense attorneys for Goodin and six indicted members of the vice squad. All the officers were suspended following return of indictments and all denied the charges.

The bills, containing information for the indictments by a special Hamilton County grand jury, also indicated that prostitutes were procured by police for unnamed high ranking police officers. The tape also said three officers were recorded on police video tape soliciting bottles of liquor in a bookmaking establishment under surveillance. The tape was later destroyed by Lt. Richard K. Beyer, vice squad head, the prosecution report said.

No trial dates have been set for the indicted officers. The Cincinnati Civil Service Commission Wednesday announced that separate hearings for six officers will be held. All but the chief had applied for reinstatement of pay while suspended.

The report said Capt. Robert J. Heinlein, who was employed by WKRC, and Lt. James Stanley, WLW, testified Goodin ordered them in August, 1971, to pay him $20 per week to keep their assignments. Goodin accepted $15 from each after they balked. The officers told the grand jury that Goodin said the money, which totaled $6,300, would go to a "slush fund" for visiting police dignitaries and police entertainment expenses.

The report said Goodin made a false statement to the grand jury Dec. 17, 1975, when he said he never told the men where the money was to go.

The report accused Beyer submitted a false set of figures about an informant's fund accounting for the money from the traffic broadcasters. Vice Squad officer James Simon was also charged with perjury when he said he disbursed the cash to informants.

Vice squad officer Roger Hummelford obtained two prostitutes June 18, 1971, from the Tender Trap bar in suburban Roselawn for two high ranking officers and promised operator William Poulous protection from possible law violations, the report said.

A similar procuring charge involved similar incidents in 1970 and 1971 with Hummelford and Hustler Bar and magazine operator Larry Flynt and an employee, Flora Griffith, the report said.

Simon and his civilian brother David were charged with theft of $340 and procuring involving a prostitute for a customer at a downtown hotel.

Officers Raymond Easterling, William Hawthorne and Sgt. Urban Ebert were video taped inside a "known bookmaking establishment" by District 1 officers soliciting a bottle of liquor each, the report said. The officers were charged with soliciting bribes.

Summer Fuel Cuts Announced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Summer fuel cuts have been announced for industrial and commercial customers of Columbia Gas of Ohio, but no changes are seen at this time in current winter fuel curtailment levels.

Heart Diseases Traced To Children

CINCINNATI (AP) — Heart disease that kills 750,000 Americans annually is an epidemic that a Cincinnati pediatric cardiologist believes can be traced to abnormalities in children.

"Adult heart disease doesn't just suddenly happen when an adult has a heart attack," said Dr. Samuel Kaplan, 53, who migrated from Johannesburg, South Africa, in 1950 and rose to head the Children's Hospital Medical Center cardiology division.

"Something must have gone on previously. If it is true, and I believe it is—we are in an epidemic now of heart disease that kills about three-quarters of a million Americans each year—then we are investigating the question as to whether this happens in childhood and if it can be modified," the doctor said.

He said the center and other institutions over the past 25 years have developed techniques and tools to save the lives of 90 per cent of children born with heart abnormalities. The science is now moving into the area of developing tests to identify potential heart disease victims in their teenage years.

"We are trying to answer the question: 'If a child has a high risk which we think is associated with early coronary death under age 50, can we identify this individual during his teenage life?'" he said.

"Once we have identified this, then there will be an opportunity of perhaps changing the course of his illness. We don't have the answers yet," he added.

Kaplan's staff and the center have produced many innovations in the treatment of heart disease over the years, including a heart-lung machine, catheters used to probe the hearts of tiny babies and procedures for testing how exercise affects heart patients, all of which have been adapted world wide.

"It is very exciting to live in the time when youngsters who were invalids because of heart disease are now being restored to normal function," Kaplan said. "But we are now entering a period where treatment is going to be an admission of failure."

"It is no longer considered that tiny children are too small, too young, for treatment. They are being treated surgically by our surgical colleagues who have a long successful track record," he said.

But Kaplan said it is necessary to expand this new period to identify potential heart abnormalities and high blood pressure problems in children.

"There is a certain concept developing that says death is inevitable, it might as well be a heart attack," he said.

"We must keep in mind that a major group of individuals affected are in their best state of productivity, at age 40-59. They should have 20 to 30 years of highly productive lives left," Kaplan said. "This is a tremendous resource this country has, and we are losing it."

Declaration Of Independence Preceded By Ohio Document

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

To most, the "Declaration of Independence" can refer only to that hallowed document signed in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776.

But there was another, signed on Ohio soil. It came about 20 months before the Philadelphia document.

As in most of the incidents of the Revolutionary period involving Ohio, this Ohio declaration began with trouble from the Indians.

In 1774 Virginia's proprietary interests in Ohio lands led to the so-called "Lord Dunmore's War" when Lord Dunmore, governor of Virginia, led an expedition against the Ohio Indians. He went by flatboat down the Ohio with 1,300 Virginia soldiers to the mouth of the Hocking, where he built a stockade called Fort Gower.

Dunmore sent a division to defeat 1,200 Shawnees at Point Pleasant on the Ohio River opposite Gallipolis and at the mouth of the Kanawha River in a battle fought Aug. 12, 1774.

It was the last battle fought by Americans as subjects of George III.

Dunmore, back in Virginia, learned of his legislature's adoption of resolutions in protest against the English Parliament's passage of the Boston Port Bill which closed that city to trade. George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry had taken part in the protest.

Dunmore dissolved the legislative session.

Back at Fort Gower, officers of Dunmore's garrison heard of the events. On Nov. 5, 1774, they drew up a declaration proclaiming sympathy for the American cause and informing the governor that, if the colonists split away from the mother country, the soldiers would side with the Americans against George III.

Some have called their action the first Declaration of Independence.

NFO Opens Grain Point

DESHLER, Ohio (AP) — The National Farmers Organization opened a regional grain accumulation point here today as part of its nationwide effort to give farmers a better price for their goods, the NFO president said.

President Oren Lee Staley said the Deshler facility is the latest addition to the NFO's Dispatch and Delivery system, which lets its members pool their products into major shipments instead of sending them to market in several small installments.

Until now, Staley said, "The market has set the price the farmer receives." The NFO distribution system puts the organization in a position to determine what prices it will accept for members' farm products, he said.

"Four or five major companies control 50 to 75 per cent of the grain market," Staley said. "The only way to compete with these large companies is with unified nationwide strength that lets us bargain along with them."

A Democratic editor in Baltimore unwittingly gave the Whigs their battle cry in a campaign which made Ohioan William Henry Harrison President. The editor wrote of Harrison: "Give him a barrel of hard cider and he will sit the remainder of his days, content, in a log cabin." Friends took the sneer as a compliment and rallied the Whigs to the campaign emblem of the log cabin.

Ohio Personal Income Shows 7 Per Cent Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The personal income rate for Ohio in November was up 7 per cent from the same month in 1974 after seasonal adjustment at $64 billion, according to an Ohio State University report.

The OSU center for business and economic research said personal income for the first 11 months of 1975 was 5 per cent higher than for that portion of 1974.

Payrolls for production workers and other nonsupervisory personnel were down 1 per cent in November from the same month in 1974, the report said. For the first 11 months of 1975, payrolls in this category, which excludes agricultural, government and public education employees, were 4 per cent below the levels for the same period the previous year.

Regionally, three of the eight major Ohio city-county areas surveyed by the center reported November-to-November increases.

The largest jump was recorded for Cincinnati (Hamilton) at 10 per cent. Both Dayton (Montgomery) and Toledo (Lucas) reported payroll levels up by 5 per cent. Declines were recorded for Youngstown (Mahoning), 10 per cent; Canton (Stark), 7 per cent; Cleveland (Cuyahoga), 4 per cent; and Akron (Summit) and Columbus (Franklin), 2 per cent.

For the first 11 months of 1975 compared with the same period the previous year, only Cincinnati (Hamilton) showed an increase in production worker payrolls, and it was fractional, the center said. Payroll declines in other areas were: Canton (Stark), 8 per cent; Youngstown (Mahoning), 7 per cent; Cleveland (Cuyahoga), 5 per cent; Akron (Summit), 3 per cent; Columbus (Franklin and Dayton (Montgomery), 2 per cent; and Toledo (Lucas), fractional.

Payrolls in the construction industry for November, 1975 were down 6 per cent from payroll levels for the same period in 1974 and declined 9 per cent for the first 11 months of 1975 compared with that period in the previous year. The report said all manufacturing industries also reported declines in both comparisons of 5 per cent for November to November and 10 per cent in the 11 month periods.

Payrolls in mines and quarries were up 30 per cent in November from the same month in 1974 but declined 8 per cent in the 11 month comparison.

EPA Rapped Over Stand On Concorde

CINCINNATI (AP) — The British ambassador to the United States accused the Environmental Protection Agency of "cheek" in not allowing the supersonic Concorde to land or fly over the U.S.

Sir Peter Ramsbotham, here Wednesday to discuss Britain's pending oil and gas independence before local commercial groups, made his comments the same day France and Britain launched began regular service with the new jet.

Ramsbotham said he was irritated that the U.S. so far has banned the flights, then noted that a "decision is expected Feb. 4 and I certainly hope it favors the Concorde."

"What cheek it is to say that the plane is not acceptable. The noise is minimal."

"When the United States wanted to land 707s in London when they were new, British citizens complained the plane was too noisy. The government permitted the plane to land because the United States was a friend and ally and because the plane represented a new technology," Ramsbotham said.

He said the Concorde makes as much noise as the 707 and more than the next generation of jetliners, but he feels the technology in the Concorde is too valuable to ignore.

"What annoys me is the cheek of the environmentalists in the United States, especially the Environmental Protection Agency. It appears they are asking for discrimination in light of minimal risk. The plane meets international standards. A decision against the Concorde could be appealed since it does meet those standards."

changing the course of his illness. We don't have the answers yet," he added.

Kaplan's staff and the center have produced many innovations in the treatment of heart disease over the years, including a heart-lung machine, catheters used to probe the hearts of tiny babies and procedures for testing how exercise affects heart patients, all of which have been adapted world wide.

"It is very exciting to live in the time when youngsters who were invalids because of heart disease are now being restored to normal function," Kaplan said. "But we are now entering a period where treatment is going to be an admission of failure."

"It is no longer considered that tiny children are too small, too young, for treatment. They are being treated surgically by our surgical colleagues who have a long successful track record," he said.

But Kaplan said it is necessary to expand this new period to identify potential heart abnormalities and high blood pressure problems in children.

"There is a certain concept developing that says death is inevitable, it might as well be a heart attack," he said.

"We must keep in mind that a major group of individuals affected are in their best state of productivity, at age 40-50. They should have 20 to 30 years of highly productive lives left," Kaplan said. "This is a tremendous resource this country has, and we are losing it."

Declaration Of Independence Preceded By Ohio Document

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

To most, the "Declaration of Independence" can refer only to that hallowed document signed in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776.

But there was another, signed on Ohio soil. It came about 20 months before the Philadelphia document.

As in most of the incidents of the Revolutionary period involving Ohio, this Ohio declaration began with trouble from the Indians.

In 1774 Virginia's proprietary interests in Ohio lands led to the so-called "Lord Dunmore's War" when Lord Dunmore, governor of Virginia, led an expedition against the Ohio Indians. He went by flatboat down the Ohio with 1,300 Virginia soldiers to the mouth of the Hocking, where he built a stockade called Fort Gower.

Dunmore sent a division to defeat 1,200 Shawnees at Point Pleasant on the Ohio River opposite Gallipolis and at the mouth of the Kanawha River in a battle fought Aug. 12, 1774.

It was the last battle fought by Americans as subjects of George III.

Dunmore, back in Virginia, learned of his legislature's adoption of resolutions in protest against the English Parliament's passage of the Boston Port Bill which closed that city to trade. George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry had taken part in the protest.

Dunmore dissolved the legislative session.

Back at Fort Gower, officers of Dunmore's garrison heard of the events. On Nov. 5, 1774, they drew up a declaration proclaiming sympathy for the American cause and informing the governor that, if the colonists split away from the mother country, the soldiers would side with the Americans against George III.

Some have called their action the first Declaration of Independence.

NFO Opens Grain Point

DESHLER, Ohio (AP) — The National Farmers Organization opened a regional grain accumulation point here today as part of its nationwide effort to give farmers a better price for their goods, the NFO president said.

President Oren Lee Staley said the Deshler facility is the latest addition to the NFO's Dispatch and Delivery system, which lets its members pool their products into major shipments instead of sending them to market in several small installments.

Until now, Staley said, "The market has set the price the farmer receives." The NFO distribution system puts the organization in a position to determine what prices it will accept for members' farm products, he said.

"Four or five major companies control 50 to 75 per cent of the grain market," Staley said. "The only way to compete with these large companies is with unified nationwide strength that lets us bargain along with them."

A Democratic editor in Baltimore unwittingly gave the Whigs their battle cry in a campaign which made Ohioan William Henry Harrison President. The editor wrote of Harrison: "Give him a barrel of hard cider and he will sit the remainder of his days, content, in a log cabin." Friends took the sneer as a compliment and rallied the Whigs to the campaign emblem of the log cabin.

Ohio Personal Income Shows 7 Per Cent Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The personal income rate for Ohio in November was up 7 per cent from the same month in 1974 after seasonal adjustment at $64 billion, according to an Ohio State University report.

The OSU center for business and economic research said personal income for the first 11 months of 1975 was 5 per cent higher than for that portion of 1974.

Payrolls for production workers and other nonsupervisory personnel were down 1 per cent in November from the same month in 1974, the report said. For the first 11 months of 1975, payrolls in this category, which excludes agricultural, government and public education employees, were 4 per cent below the levels for the same period the previous year.

Regionally, three of the eight major Ohio city-county areas surveyed by the center reported November-to-November increases.

The largest jump was recorded for Cincinnati (Hamilton) at 10 per cent. Both Dayton (Montgomery) and Toledo (Lucas) reported payroll levels up by 5 per cent. Declines were recorded for Youngstown (Mahoning), 10 per cent; Canton (Stark), 7 per cent; Cleveland (Cuyahoga), 4 per cent; and Akron (Summit) and Columbus (Franklin), 2 per cent.

For the first 11 months of 1975 compared with the same period the previous year, only Cincinnati (Hamilton) showed an increase in production worker payrolls, and it was fractional, the center said. Payroll declines in other areas were: Canton (Stark), 8 per cent; Youngstown (Mahoning), 7 per cent; Cleveland (Cuyahoga), 5 per cent; Akron (Summit), 3 per cent; Columbus (Franklin and Dayton (Montgomery), 2 per cent; and Toledo (Lucas), fractional.

Payrolls in the construction industry for November, 1975 were down 6 per cent from payroll levels for the same period in 1974 and declined 9 per cent for the first 11 months of 1975 compared with that period in the previous year. The report said all manufacturing industries also reported declines in both comparisons of 5 per cent for November to November and 10 per cent in the 11 month periods.

Payrolls in mines and quarries were up 30 per cent in November from the same month in 1974 but declined 8 per cent in the 11 month comparison.

EPA Rapped Over Stand On Concorde

CINCINNATI (AP) — The British ambassador to the United States accused the Environmental Protection Agency of "cheek" in not allowing the supersonic Concorde to land or fly over the U.S.

Sir Peter Ramsbotham, here Wednesday to discuss Britain's pending oil and gas independence before local commercial groups, made his comments the same day France and Britain launched began regular service with the new jet.

Ramsbotham said he was irritated that the U.S. so far has banned the flights, then noted that a "decision is expected Feb. 4 and I certainly hope it favors the Concorde."

"What cheek it is to say that the plane is not acceptable. The noise is minimal."

"When the United States wanted to land 707s in London when they were new, British citizens complained the plane was too noisy. The government permitted the plane to land because the United States was a friend and ally and because the plane represented a new technology," Ramsbotham said.

He said the Concorde makes as much noise as the 707 and more than the next generation of jetliners, but he feels the technology in the Concorde is too valuable to ignore.

"What annoys me is the cheek of the environmentalists in the United States, especially the Environmental Protection Agency. It appears they are asking for discrimination in light of minimal risk. The plane meets international standards. A decision against the Concorde could be appealed since it does meet those standards."

Battle Of The Cats At Mill St. Arena

It will be the "Battle of the Tigers" Friday night when the felines of Greenfield enter the lair of the Circleville cats in a South Central Ohio

League confrontation at the Mill Street gym. Circleville is leading the SCOL with a league mark of 7-1 while Greenfield is in fifth place with a mark of 4-4. Miami Trace holds second place in the league with a 6-3 record. The Red and Black cagers topped McClain 58-40 on Dec. 5 on the Greenfield floor but it will be a much improved team that will come into Circleville.

Greenfield had won five out of its last seven games with the two losses being close decisions to Miami Trace and Wilmington. They are now 7-4 on the season.

Their basic offensive alignment is a double guard set with a stack on the left side but they will also use the fast break as a major part of their offense.

McClain is basically a man to man defensive club but will use several zones and a 1-2-1-1 zone press.

Steve Harvey is the key man in the McClain offense but they have also been getting double figure scoring from Eric Dunson, Tim Dreher and Chris Nelson.

Jim Jones and Chuck Cole will also see plenty of action for the Greenfield squad.

McClain is putting an average of 58.6 points on the scoreboard while limiting the opposition to 57.3.

"Greenfield is an experienced, solid, well disciplined team and we will have to play well against them," Circleville coach Jim Bailey commented. "We played extremely well against them the first time and are looking forward to meeting them again as we have a lot of respect for their basketball program."

"They had an off night at the foul line in our first encounter, two out of 15 which made the margin of victory larger than it might have been," Bailey said.

"I was pleased with the way our young men bounced back against Unioto, especially the play and hustle of our players coming off the bench. These young men work hard and contribute greatly to the success of our team. It was great to see the improvement over earlier opportunities and I thought Wendell Perkins played very well."

"Coach Dave Wardle of Unioto must be complimented for the fine job he is doing running a one-man cage program and keeping morale and team spirit up despite the victory drought they are going through," Bailey stated.

Circleville is currently 9-1 overall with a 7-1 mark in the SCOL. The Red and Black cagers are averaging 69.4 points per game and holding their opponents to a 51.6 game average. They are shooting 55.2 per cent from the floor.

Three Tigers are hitting in double figures with Biff Bumgarner averaging 21.3 points a game, George Moore 16.2 and Mike McCoy is hitting 13.0.

Moore leads all regulars in field goal shooting with 72 per cent. He is also the leading rebounder with 61 defensive and 46 offensive, leads in steals with 33 and has only committed eight turn-overs in 10 games.

McCoy has the best foul shooting percentage of the starters with 77 per cent. The sharpshooting guard has converted 20 of 26 attempts.

In addition to Moore, Bumgarner and McCoy, Frank Merrill and Brent Mancini will make up the starting five. Warren Yamarick will be the sixth man with bench strength coming from Rusty Holbrook, Jeff Williams, Tom Taylor, Brian Fath, Wendell Perkins and Eric Pontius.

Dave Long Named Top OAC Player

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baldwin-Wallace center Dave Long has made his presence in the Ohio Athletic Conference felt in a hurry.

The 6-foot-6 leaper was named OAC Player of the Week after scoring 26 points and pulling down eight rebounds in a midweek 76-65 loss to Ohio Northern and popping in 22 points and grabbing eight rebounds in a 98-86 victory over Oberlin.

He made 11 of 26 field goal attempts in the first game and eight of 11 in the second contest.

Duke, Clemson Post Cage Wins

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
If you think that Bill Foster's team had a big night in Durham, N.C., you should have seen the night that Bill Foster's team had in College Park, Md.

Bill Foster's name really got around in the Atlantic Coast Conference Wednesday night because of upsets pulled off by Duke and Clemson. Both basketball teams, of course, are coached by Bill Fosters.

Duke surprised 14th-ranked Wake Forest 97-93 and Clemson shocked second-ranked Maryland 82-77 to further shake up the tumultuous ACC race.

"Maybe I'm playing the wrong people," said Maryland's Lefty Driessell. "Maybe you'll see some different people on Sunday when we play North Carolina. The guys just aren't cutting it. It's a disgrace when you lose a game at home."

Clemson's Bill Foster was besieged by reporters, but dismissed any credit for the big victory.

"Hey," he told them, "the kids won the game, I didn't have much to do with it."

He was reminded that the Tigers' victory was their eighth in nine road games this season.

"That's more games on the road than Clemson's won since Dr. Naismith nailed up the peach basket," Foster said with a chuckle.

In other games, third-ranked Marquette bombed Creighton 76-62; fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas routed Nevada-Reno 120-98; No. 9 St. John's took Boston College 53-51 and No. 15 Notre Dame crushed St. Joseph's of Indiana 97-60.

Sophomore Stan Rome scored all five of his points as Clemson rallied with six minutes remaining to upset Maryland. The Tigers, 13-3, including 3-1 in the ACC, led through most of the game but fell behind 62-60 with 6:35 left. Five points by Rome and two more by freshman Greg Coles put Clemson ahead 67-62.

Clemson boosted its margin to 78-67 with 3:11 to play and then almost blew the lead by missing three one-and-one foul tries in the last minute after the Terps pulled to within 78-75. But David Brown sank two free throws with six seconds remaining and Johnson added two more just before the buzzer to deal Maryland its second loss in 15 starts. The Terps are 1-2 in the ACC.

Mark Crowe sank 4 free throws with seven seconds remaining in overtime to give Duke an insurmountable 95-91 lead and the Blue Devils went on to nip Wake Forest 97-93. The Deacons had missed a chance to win the game in regulation time when Rod Griffin's rebound of a Jerry Schellenberg miss was ruled after the buzzer, sending the game into overtime, tied at 82.

Earl Tatum and Butch Lee scored 18 points apiece to lead Marquette past Creighton; a 29-point performance by Eddie Owens triggered Nevada-Las Vegas past Nevada-Reno; Beaver Smith hit a 15-footer with two minutes to play and St. John's went on to beat Boston College with a tough defense and Notre Dame rolled past St. Joseph's behind Adrian Dantley's 30 points.

OU Defeats Eastern Michigan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Mid-American Conference basketball leaders remained unbeaten after Wednesday night's action, but the coach of a team that has been victimized by all three believes Western Michigan will emerge the champion.

"I'd say Western Michigan has the edge," Al Freund of Eastern Michigan ventured after his team fell to Ohio University 74-66.

However, Freund had nothing but praise for the surprising Ohio squad which kept its conference record unblemished in four games.

"Ohio is active and moving," he said. "Ohio plays with enthusiasm and intensity. When you do that you can beat people."

Meanwhile, Western Michigan and Miami scored easy victories to improve their records to 5-0. The Broncos rolled over Kent State 75-53 while Miami coasted past Ball State 97-75.

In other MAC action, Toledo downed Bowling Green 72-63 in their 90th meeting and Central Michigan beat Northern Illinois 77-61.

Ohio, figured to be an alsonar in the league this season, recorded its seven straight triumph at home with a balanced attack led by reserve Steve Skaggs with 16 points and Bucky Walden with 15.

Eastern Michigan, led by Dan Hoff with a game-high 17 points, suffered its fifth MAC loss in as many games. Eastern held a 33-32 advantage at halftime, but Ohio took command early in the second half and quickly built up a 10-point margin.

"In the second half we were more aggressive," said Bobcat Coach Dale Bandy. "Their first half tempo put us to sleep. We decided to gamble a little and take it to them defensively."

Western Michigan never trailed while notching its 13th straight victory. Jeff Tyson led the well-rounded attack with 17 points while Paul Griffin hauled in 12 rebounds.

Cold-shooting Kent hit the basket only 34 per cent of the time from the field in dropping to a 2-3 mark in the MAC.

Rangers, Black Hawks Tie, 3-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When you've been losing as much as the New York Rangers have, a tie is like kissing Raquel Welch rather than your sister, especially when it comes in the last 20 seconds.

That's how much time remained on the clock when Phil Esposito lifted a rebound over former New York goalie Gilles Villemure, enabling the beleaguered Rangers to tie the Chicago Black Hawks 3-3.

The Hawks held a 3-1 lead on goals by Cliff Koroll, Darcy Rota and Pit Martin when the Rangers began their comeback on Wayne Dillon's first goal in 14 games with 4:50 to play. Esposito then netted the rebound of a shot by Dillon after the Rangers yanked goalie Dunc Wilson in favor of a sixth skater.

It was the 17th goal of the season for the big center, who had scored only twice in the last 16 games, and tied Montreal's Maurice Richard with 544 for third place on the alltime NHL list.

"I'm particularly pleased with the way it ended," said Coach John Ferguson, who made his New York debut, "but I want to win."

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League, the New York Islanders downed the Washington Capitals 5-2, the St. Louis Blues shaded the Kansas City Scouts 4-2 and the Minnesota North Stars trimmed the Vancouver Canucks 5-1.

Aeros Rout Whalers, 9-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New England Whalers went West Wednesday night but probably wished they'd never followed Horace Greeley's advice.

The Whalers journeyed to Houston, where Gordon Labossiere scored three goals in leading the Aeros to a 9-3 rout in a battle between the World Hockey Association's Western and Eastern Division leaders.

Labossiere connected twice early in the second period to put Houston ahead 3-0, then added his third on a 45-foot shot with 7:28 left in the game. The outburst gave him six goals in the last four games. Don Larway also scored twice and Frank Hughes, Mark Howe, Poul Popiel and Andre Hinse got one goal each for Houston.

Elsewhere, the Quebec Nordiques edged the Indianapolis Racers in a fight-marred game 3-2, the Minnesota Fighting Saints nipped the San Diego Mariners 6-5 in overtime, the Cincinnati Stingers routed the Cleveland Crusaders 8-2 and the Winnipeg Jets beat the Calgary Cowboys 4-1.

Crosby Open Has Fluke; Good Weather

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is here. And Johnny Miller. And Tom Weiskopf and British Open king Tom Watson and defending champion Gene Littler. And show business celebrities Clint Eastwood and Glen Campbell, George C. Scott and Efram Zimbalist Jr.

But the Crosby weather is among the missing.

The sun is shining. It's bright and warm and sunny and beautiful. There's just a gentle breeze off the bay.

Golf touring pros are walking around in a daze, their expressions shocked and disbelieving.

"I have a feeling I'm in the wrong town," said one.

"Is this a new stop on the tour?," asked another.

"I am physcologically unprepared for these conditions," confided a college graduate.

The $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am which got underway today traditionally has some of the foulest, most unbearable weather seen on the tour. In the 35 years since Bing started his clambake, the event has offered almost annual incursions of wind and rain, occasionally sleet and snow. And cold. Almost always there's been the cold.

This year the weather is almost perfect. It's almost too good. It's been the third driest winter since the weather bureau started keeping statistics. The reservoirs are going dry. The forest fire dangers have reached peak and fire-fighting crews have been put on standby.

It's so dry and sunny and pleasant no one knows how to play the golf courses.

Oil Got In Way Of Dig For Water

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Striking oil is usually a cause for celebration, but to the well-digging crew at the Patio Mexican Foods plant, finding the black gold was little more than an annoyance.

In fact, the crew hit oil, albeit a poor grade, five times before they finally found the water they were drilling for 1,400 feet underground.

"I was beginning to wonder if we'd ever find the water we needed with all that oil getting in the way," said plant manager Ralph Cornwell. "But now we have our own water well and it looks like we may even have a 30-year supply."

New U.S. Supreme Court Justice John Stevens of Chicago once acted as the attorney for Charley Finley, owner of the Oakland A's baseball team.

Players Ponder Pro Bowl Boycott

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It's up to the players to decide today whether they'll boycott Monday night's National Football League Pro Bowl, said Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association.

Garvey said he has scheduled a meeting this afternoon with players from both the American and National Football Conferences.

"We are not calling for a boycott or strike," he said. "Our purpose is to bring the players up to date on all the issues, including the status of the player pension plan. Then it's up to the players."

The pension plan has, in the past, been funded out of proceeds from conference championship games, the Super Bowl and the Pro Bowl.

However the league and the players union have not been able to agree on a contract since the old one expired at the end of 1974. There have been no payments to the pension fund during the two years the union has been without a contract.

"We are taking the position that we are not going to contribute until we have an agreement and know what the rules are that we are operating under," said Sargent Karch, head of the group that acts as bargaining agent for NFL owners.

"They've been trying to break the union the past two years," Garvey said.

He said the union is concerned about widows' benefits and disability payments, but that the possible boycott of the Pro Bowl hinges on payments to the pension fund.

If each of the 26 NFL teams would pay about $170,000 each — a total of $4.4 million — "it would make things a lot easier," Garvey said.

"But they are going to vote on playing the Pro Bowl, and I don't know what course they will decide, or what action they will take, if any."

He said that if the players decide to play the game, "That's fine — no problem."

The Players Association decided not to pursue its demands at the Super Bowl in Miami, he said, because of what that game means to the players involved.

"The Super Bowl is the pinnacle of success to players and teams. You don't want to interfere with it. Here, you have players from throughout the league who are concerned about issues."

Despite the uncertainty surrounding the game, practice sessions continued in sunny, 60-degree weather.

"I haven't heard anything about a strike from anyone in the game," said a spokesman at one of the training camps.

"They're getting an awful lot done and having a lot of fun doing it."

Battle Of The Cats At Mill St. Arena

It will be the "Battle of the Tigers" Friday night when the felines of Greenfield enter the lair of the Circleville cats in a South Central Ohio

League confrontation at the Mill Street gym. Circleville is leading the SCOL with a league mark of 7-1 while Greenfield is in fifth place with a mark of 4-4. Miami Trace holds second place in the league with a 6-3 record. The Red and Black cagers topped McClain 58-40 on Dec. 5 on the Greenfield floor but it will be a much improved team that will come into Circleville.

Greenfield had won five out of its last seven games with the two losses being close decisions to Miami Trace and Wilmington. They are now 7-4 on the season.

Their basic offensive alignment is a double guard set with a stack on the left side but they will also use the fast break as a major part of their offense.

McClain is basically a man to man defensive club but will use several zones and a 1-2-1 zone press.

Steve Harvey is the key man in the McClain offense but they have also been getting double figure scoring from Eric Dunson, Tim Dreher and Chris Nelson.

Jim Jones and Chuck Cole will also see plenty of action for the Greenfield squad.

McClain is putting an average of 58.6 points on the scoreboard while limiting the opposition to 57.3.

"Greenfield is an experienced, solid, well disciplined team and we will have to play well against them," Circleville coach Jim Bailey commented. "We played extremely well against them the first time and are looking forward to meeting them again as we have a lot of respect for their basketball program."

"They had an off night at the foul line in our first encounter, two out of 15 which made the margin of victory larger than it might have been," Bailey said.

"I was pleased with the way our young men bounced back against Unioto, especially the play and hustle of our players coming off the bench. These young men work hard and contribute greatly to the success of our team. It was great to see the improvement over earlier opportunities and I thought Wendell Perkins played very well."

"Coach Dave Wardle of Unioto must be complimented for the fine job he is doing running a one-man cage program and keeping morale and team spirit up despite the victory drought they are going through," Bailey stated.

Circleville is currently 9-1 overall with a 7-1 mark in the SCOL. The Red and Black cagers are averaging 69.4 points per game and holding their opponents to a 51.6 game average. They are shooting 55.2 per cent from the floor.

Three Tigers are hitting in double figures with Biff Bumgarner averaging 21.3 points a game, George Moore 16.2 and Mike McCoy is hitting 13.0.

Moore leads all regulars in field goal shooting with 72 per cent. He is also the leading rebounder with 61 defensive and 46 offensive, leads in steals with 33 and has only committed eight turnovers in 10 games.

McCoy has the best foul shooting percentage of the starters with 77 per cent. The sharpshooting guard has converted 20 of 26 attempts.

In addition to Moore, Bumgarner and McCoy, Frank Merrill and Brent Mancini will make up the starting five. Warren Yamarick will be the sixth man with bench strength coming from Rusty Holbrook, Jeff Williams, Tom Taylor, Brian Fath, Wendell Perkins and Eric Pontius.

Dave Long Named Top OAC Player

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baldwin-Wallace center Dave Long has made his presence in the Ohio Athletic Conference felt in a hurry.

The 6-foot-6 leaper was named OAC Player of the Week after scoring 26 points and pulling down eight rebounds in a midweek 76-65 loss to Ohio Northern and popping in 22 points and grabbing eight rebounds in a 98-86 victory over Oberlin.

He made 11 of 26 field goal attempts in the first game and eight of 11 in the second contest.

TV Reserve Matmen Host Meet Saturday

Teays Valley's reserve wrestling team will host a nine team tournament beginning noon Saturday.

Teams participating are: DeSales, Grove City, Hamilton Township, New Albany, Upper Arlington, Watterson, Wehrle and Westerville North.

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

If you think that Bill Foster's team had a big night in Durham, N.C., you should have seen the night that Bill Foster's team had in College Park, Md.

Bill Foster's name really got around in the Atlantic Coast Conference Wednesday night because of upsets pulled off by Duke and Clemson. Both basketball teams, of course, are coached by Bill Fosters.

Duke surprised 14th-ranked Wake Forest 97-83 and Clemson shocked second-ranked Maryland 82-77 to further shake up the tumultuous ACC race.

"Maybe I'm playing the wrong people," said Maryland's Lefty Driessell. "Maybe you'll see some different people on Sunday when we play North Carolina. The guys just aren't cutting it. It's a disgrace when you lose a game at home."

Clemson's Bill Foster was besieged by reporters, but dismissed any credit for the big victory.

"Hey," he told them, "the kids won the game, I didn't have much to do with it."

He was reminded that the Tigers' victory was their eighth in nine road games this season.

"That's more games on the road than Clemson's won since Dr. Naismith nailed up the peach basket," Foster said with a chuckle.

In other games, third-ranked Marquette bombed Creighton 76-62; fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas routed Nevada-Reno 120-98; No. 9 St. John's took Boston College 53-61 and No. 15 Notre Dame crushed St. Joseph's of Indiana 97-60.

Sophomore Stan Rose scored all five of his points as Clemson rallied with six minutes remaining to upset Maryland. The Tigers, 13-3, including 3-1 in the ACC, led through most of the game but fell behind 62-60 with 6:35 left. Five points by Rome and two more by freshman Greg Coles put Clemson ahead 67-62.

Clemson boosted its margin to 78-67 with 3:11 to play and then almost blew

the lead by missing three one-and-one foul tries in the last minute after the Terps pulled to within 78-75. But David Brown sank two free throws with six seconds remaining and Johnson added two more just before the buzzer to deal Maryland its second loss in 15 starts. The Terps are 1-2 in the ACC.

Mark Crowe sank 4 free throws with seven seconds remaining in overtime to give Duke an insurmountable 95-91 lead and the Blue Devils went on to nip Wake Forest 97-93. The Deacons had missed a chance to win the game in regulation time when Rod Griffin's rebound of a Jerry Schellenberg miss was ruled after the buzzer, sending the game into overtime, tied at 82.

Earl Tatum and Butch Lee scored 18 points apiece to lead Marquette past Creighton; a 29-point performance by Eddie Owens triggered Nevada-Las Vegas past Nevada-Reno; Beaver Smith hit a 15-footer with two minutes to play and St. John's went on to beat Boston College with a tough defense and Notre Dame rolled past St. Joseph's behind Adrian Dantley's 30 points.

A 50-30 halftime lead. "I was embarrassed at halftime and I told the team they should be embarrassed too," Ball State Coach Jim Holstein said later.

The Redskins were paced by Archie Aldridge with 22 points. Randy Boardman scored 20 points for Ball State, now 1-4 in the conference.

Toledo, led by Larry Cole with 20 points, went on 10 and eight-point scoring spurts to its victory over Bowling Green. The Falcons fought back from the first but couldn't recover the second time.

"It just takes too much out of you to have to come back the way we had to," said Bowling Green mentor Pat Haley.

Leonard Drake pumped in 20 points and Denny Parks added 18 for Central Michigan in its verdict over Northern Illinois. Central now is 2-3 in the loop.

Matt Hicks tallied a gamehigh 22 points for Northern Illinois, still winless in five league contests.

In Ohio Conference basketball play Wednesday night, Rob Winton and David Long chipped in 17 points apiece and three other players scored in double figures as Baldwin-Wallace defeated Mount Union 87-73. B-W now is 2-2 in the Northern Division, while Mount Union dropped to 2-3.

Geron Tate poured in 31 points to lead Ohio Wesleyan to a come-from-behind 87-85 triumph over Southern Division foe Marietta. It was the Bishops' first conference victory in four games. The Pioneers now are 1-4.

Findlay recorded a 98-86 verdict in overtime over Manchester in Hoosier-Buckeye Conference action, while Defiance thumped Wilmington 93-63 with a hot 57 per cent shooting performance from the field.

John Carroll held off a closing rally by Case Western Reserve for a 79-73 Presidents Conference victory.

Elsewhere, it was St. Bonaventure 114, Cleveland State 80; Youngstown State 94, Walsh 70; Bluffton 92, Urbana 79; Wright State 118, Roosevelt, Ill. 59.

Westfall Juniors Split Cage Tilts

The Westfall seventh grade basketball team defeated Madison Rural 44-26, while the Mustang eighth graders fell to Madison Rural 39-35.

Westfall's seventh graders, 11-2, were led by Jerry Mowery who scored 20 points, Matt Gibson had 12, Greg Beard hooped five, Lonnie Puckett had two and Jim Hart added one. Clouse led Madison Rural with 16 points, while Tope added six.

The seventh graders led at the end of each quarter, 13-4, 29-9 and 43-11.

The eighth graders were led by Shorty Roberts who had 15 points, Chuck Sollars tallied 10, Dave Roush had four, while Mike Whitten, Tracy Puckett and Lee Bowser all added two. Madison Rural was led by Glispie and Whited who scored 10 points each.

The seventh and eighth grade teams will be back in action today when they host Amanda.

9th Grade Wrestling Meet At High School

Circleville's ninth grade wrestling team will host Upper Arlington Jones in a dual meet 5 p.m. Friday in the high school gym.

The meet is being held at the high school gym due to the Circleville-Greenfield basketball game at Mill Street gym Friday night.

OU Defeats Eastern Michigan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Mid-American Conference basketball leaders remained unbeaten after Wednesday night's action, but the coach of a team that has been victimized by all three believes Western Michigan will emerge the champion.

"I'd say Western Michigan has the edge," Al Freund of Eastern Michigan ventured after his team fell to Ohio University 74-66.

However, Freund had nothing but praise for the surprising Ohio squad which kept its conference record unblemished in four games.

"Ohio is active and moving," he said. "Ohio plays with enthusiasm and intensity. When you do that you can beat people."

Meanwhile, Western Michigan and Miami scored easy victories to improve their records to 5-0. The Broncos rolled over Kent State 75-53 while Miami coasted past Ball State 97-75.

In other MAC action, Toledo downed Bowling Green 72-63 in their 90th meeting and Central Michigan beat Northern Illinois 77-61.

Ohio, figured to be an alsonan in the league this season, recorded its seven straight triumph at home with a balanced attack led by reserve Steve Skaggs with 16 points and Bucky Walden with 15.

Eastern Michigan, led by Dan Hoff with a game-high 17 points, suffered its fifth MAC loss in as many games. Eastern held a 33-32 advantage at halftime, but Ohio took command early in the second half and quickly built up a 10-point margin.

"In the second half we were more aggressive," said Bobcat Coach Dale Bandy. "Their first half tempo put us to sleep. We decided to gamble a little and take it to them defensively."

Western Michigan never trailed while notching its 13th straight victory. Jeff Tyson led the well-rounded attack with 17 points while Paul Griffin hauled in 12 rebounds.

Cold-shooting Kent hit the basket only 34 per cent of the time from the field in dropping to a 2-3 mark in the MAC.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is here. And Johnny Miller. And Tom Weiskopf and British Open king Tom Watson and defending champion Gene Littler. And show business celebrities Clint Eastwood and Glen Campbell, George C. Scott and Efram Zimbalist Jr.

But the Crosby weather is among the missing.

The sun is shining. It's bright and warm and sunny and beautiful. There's just a gentle breeze off the bay.

Golf touring pros are walking around in a daze, their expressions shocked and disbelieving.

"I have a feeling I'm in the wrong town," said one.

"Is this a new stop on the tour?," asked another.

"I am physiologically unprepared for these conditions," confided a college graduate.

The $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am which got underway today traditionally has some of the foulest, most unbearable weather seen on the tour. In the 35 years since Bing started his clambake, the event has offered almost annual incursions of wind and rain, occasionally sleet and snow. And cold. Almost always there's been the cold.

This year the weather is almost perfect. It's almost too good. It's been the third driest winter since the weather bureau started keeping statistics. The reservoirs are going dry. The forest fire dangers have reached peak and fire-fighting crews have been put on standby.

It's so dry and sunny and pleasant no one knows how to play the golf courses.

Oil Got In Way Of Dig For Water

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Striking oil is usually a cause for celebration, but to the well-digging crew at the Patio Mexican Foods plant, finding the black gold was little more than an annoyance.

In fact, the crew hit oil, albeit a poor grade, five times before they finally found the water they were drilling for 1,400 feet underground.

"I was beginning to wonder if we'd ever find the water we needed with all that oil getting in the way," said plant manager Ralph Cornwell. "But now we have our own water well and it looks like we may even have a 30-year supply."

New U.S. Supreme Court Justice John Stevens of Chicago once acted as the attorney for Charley Finley, owner of the Oakland A's baseball team.

Rangers, Black Hawks Tie, 3-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you've been losing as much as the New York Rangers have, a tie is like kissing Raquel Welch rather than your sister, especially when it comes in the last 20 seconds.

That's how much time remained on the clock when Phil Esposito lifted a rebound over former New York goalie Gilles Villemure, enabling the beleaguered Rangers to tie the Chicago Black Hawks 3-3.

The Hawks held a 3-1 lead on goals by Cliff Koroll, Darcy Rota and Pit Martin when the Rangers began their comeback on Wayne Dillon's first goal in 14 games with 4:50 to play. Esposito then netted the rebound of a shot by Dillon after the Rangers yanked goalie Dunc Wilson in favor of a sixth skater.

It was the 17th goal of the season for the big center, who had scored only twice in the last 16 games, and tied Montreal's Maurice Richard with 544 for third place on the alltime NHL list.

"I'm particularly pleased with the way it ended," said Coach John Ferguson, who made his New York debut, "but I want to win."

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League, the New York Islanders downed the Washington Capitals 5-2, the St. Louis Blues shaded the Kansas City Scouts 4-2 and the Minnesota North Stars trimmed the Vancouver Canucks 5-1.

Aeros Rout Whalers, 9-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New England Whalers went West Wednesday night but probably wished they'd never followed Horace Greeley's advice.

The Whalers journeyed to Houston, where Gordon Labossiere scored three goals in leading the Aeros to a 9-3 rout in a battle between the World Hockey Association's Western and Eastern Division leaders.

Labossiere connected twice early in the second period to put Houston ahead 3-0, then added his third on a 45-foot shot with 7:28 left in the game. The outburst gave him six goals in the last four games. Don Larway also scored twice and Frank Hughes, Mark Howe, Poul Popiel and Andre Hinse got one goal each for Houston.

Elsewhere, the Quebec Nordiques edged the Indianapolis Racers in a fight-marred game 3-2, the Minnesota Fighting Saints nipped the San Diego Mariners 6-5 in overtime, the Cincinnati Stingers routed the Cleveland Crusaders 8-2 and the Winnipeg Jets beat the Calgary Cowboys 4-1.

Players Ponder Pro Bowl Boycott

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It's up to the players to decide today whether they'll boycott Monday night's National Football League Pro Bowl, said Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association.

Garvey said he has scheduled a meeting this afternoon with players from both the American and National Football Conferences.

"We are not calling for a boycott or strike," he said. "Our purpose is to bring the players up to date on all the issues, including the status of the player pension plan. Then it's up to the players."

The pension plan has, in the past, been funded out of proceeds from conference championship games, the Super Bowl and the Pro Bowl.

However the league and the players union have not been able to agree on a contract since the old one expired at the end of 1974. There have been no payments to the pension fund during the two years the union has been without a contract.

"We are taking the position that we are not going to contribute until we have an agreement and know what the rules are that we are operating under," said Sargent Karch, head of the group that acts as bargaining agent for NFL owners.

"They've been trying to break the union the past two years," Garvey said.

He said the union is concerned about widows' benefits and disability payments, but that the possible boycott of the Pro Bowl hinges on payments to the pension fund.

If each of the 26 NFL teams would pay about $170,000 each — a total of $4.4 million — "it would make things a lot easier," Garvey said.

"But they are going to vote on playing the Pro Bowl, and I don't know what course they will decide, or what action they will take, if any."

He said that if the players decide to play the game, "That's fine — no problem."

The Players Association decided not to pursue its demands at the Super Bowl in Miami, he said, because of what that game means to the players involved.

"The Super Bowl is the pinnacle of success to players and teams. You don't want to interfere with it. Here, you have players from throughout the league who are concerned about issues."

Despite the uncertainty surrounding the game, practice sessions continued in sunny, 60-degree weather.

"I haven't heard anything about a strike from anyone in the game," said a spokesman at one of the training camps.

"They're getting an awful lot done and having a lot of fun doing it."

Uranium Shortage Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Ronald Mottl, D-Ohio, said Wednesday an eight-month government study shows this country is in serious danger of running short of uranium within the next 10 years.

Mottl said the data collected by the General Accounting Office indicates to him that "we must completely review our commitment to nuclear power and establish comprehensive uranium use and resource policies, if we are to avoid disastrous consequences to our economy and national security."

The GAO report has not been released pending the submission of comments from the Energy Research and Development Administration. But Mottl said, "It will clearly show that we have been operating without a responsible national policy regarding uranium resources."

"The United States has been selling uranium below world market prices and allowing its exports to go on unrecorded and unchecked."

Mottl said the agencies regulating uranium exports do not know how much of the substance is being exported and have not developed criteria to handle any domestic supply problems.

Mottl has written President Ford calling for a curtailment of exports of uranium, nuclear reactor materials and nuclear technology pending the development of a comprehensive national policy.

He suggested the appointment of a commission to review "the national and international aspects of the safety and economics of nuclear power."

Job Dip Swells College Ranks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Job scarcity combined with expectations of women and minority group members swelled freshmen classes in the nation's four-year colleges this fall to the highest rate of increase since 1969.

Dr. Garland Parker, vice provost for admissions and records at the University of Cincinnati, said 6,896,124 new students enrolled in 1,383 four-year colleges, a 7.4 per cent increase over last year.

The college enrollment expert's annual report released today estimated there are now more than 11 million persons enrolled fulltime and parttime in 3,062 institutions of higher learning surveyed.

"As the enrollment drop in the early 1970s caught the higher education community by surprise, so did the size of the rise in 1975," said Dr. Parker, whose findings are published by the "American Testing Program," (ACT). The annual survey was formerly published by the journal "Intellect," and under its earlier title, "School & Society."

Parker predicted that college

enrollment nationally will peak in the late 1970s and taper off in the 1980s.

He said colleges and universities should make plans to fill the vacancies with programs for alumni, special students, women, and persons interested in continuing education.

Enrollment of such parttime students in the institutions covered increased 7.7 per cent this fall for a total of 2,013,047.

Parker said the factors which might be causing the unusual increase is the entry or re-entry of women into the educational mainstream, senior citizen and continuing education students, larger numbers of transfers, institutional emphasis on retention programs that counter heavy attrition rates, especially among disadvantaged and ethnic minority students and an increasing number of collegiate returnees.

"In these times of job scarcity, recession and inflation, many young as well as older Americans have sought to resume or embark upon a collegiate experience," Parker said.

"I feel also that a significant segment of younger as well as more mature persons in 1975 were more convinced of the merits and the need in terms of life enrichment of higher and post-secondary education," he said.

The report said women now make up 45.4 per cent of the enrollment in 1,472 institutions. Enrollment in 100 urban colleges and universities was up 5.5 per cent.

Parker said that "perhaps the greatest challenge facing higher education in the late 20th century is to respond to the needs of the populants of America's great inner city areas."

The largest enrollment gain was in the East and South-Central areas followed by New England, South Atlantic, and Mountain states. Parker said the Middle Atlantic region declined by 1 per cent, reflecting the 3.2 loss of students for the year in New York.

Enrollments of veterans increased 37.5 per cent.

There were 5 per cent more fulltime medical students and graduate school enrollment was up 6.6 per cent.

Collier To Leave State Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Budget Director Howard L. Collier will leave state government April 10 to return to his job as vice president for finance at the Medical College of Toledo.

Collier, a mainstay of Gov. James A. Rhodes' cabinet, had intended to leave the budget post Jan. 1, 1976, but agreed to stay on to help guide the state through a difficult financial period.

Collier said he was satisfied the December-January state cash shortage had been resolved, freeing him to return to Toledo. He has been on leave from the medical school.

Collier said he had recommended a choice for his successor to Rhodes. He would not reveal the recommendation, but it is widely believed that he favors assistant Budget Director William Wilkins.

Collier said Wilkins would be in charge during the transitional period up to his (Collier's) effective leaving date in April.

An easy going, plain-spoken man, the 43-year-old Collier came to state government in 1963 with the first Rhodes administration.

Collier said his major accomplishment during the one-year stay with Rhodes was "steering the state through the most difficult year economically that we've had since the 1930s."

The fiscal crunch that forced the state to borrow from itself to pay bills during the low income period of recent weeks has eased, he said.

A 2 per cent budget cutback, increased revenues and a hiring freeze, "will permit us to have fiscal year 1977 in balance both technically and constitutionally," Collier added.

He also noted that legislation had been drafted to provide the Ohio Building Authority with a $12 million appropriation to meet debt payments on the State Office Tower and other buildings.

"The balance of this fiscal year is pretty well wrapped up," Collier told newsmen. He said he was "cautiously optimistic" about the fiscal year beginning July 1. On previous occasions, the finance chief has warned that the state could face severe problems in meeting its fiscal obligations in the second year of the biennium.

In addition to leaving the $31,500 budget job—he claimed he didn't know his exact salary—Collier retired as chairman of the Governor's Committee on Interstate Cooperation and as chairman of the Elected Officials and Judicial Compensation Review Commission.

"I have said publicly for more than a decade that you are Ohio's greatest governor," he wrote to Rhodes. "I will fondly remember the close relationship we had in your two previous terms as governor and your farsighted programs that changed the face and attitude of our great state."

Uranium Shortage Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Ronald Mottl, D-Ohio, said Wednesday an eight-month government study shows this country is in serious danger of running short of uranium within the next 10 years.

Mottl said the data collected by the General Accounting Office indicates to him that "we must completely review our commitment to nuclear power and establish comprehensive uranium use and resource policies, if we are to avoid disastrous consequences to our economy and national security."

The GAO report has not been released pending the submission of comments from the Energy Research and Development Administration. But Mottl said, "It will clearly show that we have been operating without a responsible national policy regarding uranium resources."

"The United States has been selling uranium below world market prices and allowing its exports to go on unrecorded and unchecked."

Mottl said the agencies regulating uranium exports do not know how much of the substance is being exported and have not developed criteria to handle any domestic supply problems.

Mottl has written President Ford calling for a curtailment of exports of uranium, nuclear reactor materials and nuclear technology pending the development of a comprehensive national policy.

He suggested the appointment of a commission to review "the national and international aspects of the safety and economics of nuclear power."

Job Dip Swells College Ranks

CINCINNATI (AP) — Job scarcity combined with expectations of women and minority group members swelled freshmen classes in the nation's four-year colleges this fall to the highest rate of increase since 1969.

Dr. Garland Parker, vice provost for admissions and records at the University of Cincinnati, said 6,896,124 new students enrolled in 1,383 four-year colleges, a 7.4 per cent increase over last year.

The college enrollment expert's annual report released today estimated there are now more than 11 million persons enrolled fulltime and parttime in 3,062 institutions of higher learning surveyed.

"As the enrollment drop in the early 1970s caught the higher education community by surprise, so did the size of the rise in 1975," said Dr. Parker, whose findings are published by the "American Testing Program," (ACT). The annual survey was formerly published by the journal "Intellect," and under its earlier title, "School & Society."

Parker predicted that college

enrollment nationally will peak in the late 1970s and taper off in the 1980s.

He said colleges and universities should make plans to fill the vacancies with programs for alumni, special students, women, and persons interested in continuing education.

Enrollment of such parttime students in the institutions covered increased 7.7 per cent this fall for a total of 2,013,047.

Parker said the factors which might be causing the unusual increase is the entry or re-entry of women into the educational mainstream, senior citizen and continuing education students, larger numbers of transfers, institutional emphasis on retention programs that counter heavy attrition rates, especially among disadvantaged and ethnic minority students and an increasing number of collegiate returnees.

"In these times of job scarcity, recession and inflation, many young as well as older Americans have sought to resume or embark upon a collegiate experience," Parker said.

"I feel also that a significant segment of younger as well as more mature persons in 1975 were more convinced of the merits and the need in terms of life enrichment of higher and post-secondary education," he said.

The report said women now make up 45.4 per cent of the enrollment in 1,472 institutions. Enrollment in 100 urban colleges and universities was up 5.5 per cent.

Parker said that "perhaps the greatest challenge facing higher education in the late 20th century is to respond to the needs of the populants of America's great inner city areas."

The largest enrollment gain was in the East and South-Central areas followed by New England, South Atlantic, and Mountain states. Parker said the Middle Atlantic region declined by 1 per cent, reflecting the 3.2 loss of students for the year in New York.

Enrollments of veterans increased 37.5 per cent.

There were 5 per cent more fulltime medical students and graduate school enrollment was up 6.6 per cent.

Collier To Leave State Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Budget Director Howard L. Collier will leave state government April 10 to return to his job as vice president for finance at the Medical College of Toledo.

Collier, a mainstay of Gov. James A. Rhodes' cabinet, had intended to leave the budget post Jan. 1, 1976, but agreed to stay on to help guide the state through a difficult financial period.

Collier said he was satisfied the December-January state cash shortage had been resolved, freeing him to return to Toledo. He has been on leave from the medical school.

Collier said he had recommended a choice for his successor to Rhodes. He would not reveal the recommendation, but it is widely believed that he favors assistant Budget Director William Wilkins.

Collier said Wilkins would be in charge during the transitional period up to his (Collier's) effective leaving date in April.

An easy going, plain-spoken man, the 43-year-old Collier came to state government in 1963 with the first Rhodes administration.

Collier said his major accomplishment during the one-year stay with Rhodes was "steering the state through the most difficult year economically that we've had since the 1930s."

The fiscal crunch that forced the state to borrow from itself to pay bills during the low income period of recent weeks has eased, he said.

A 2 per cent budget cutback, increased revenues and a hiring freeze, "will permit us to have fiscal year 1977 in balance both technically and constitutionally," Collier added.

He also noted that legislation had been drafted to provide the Ohio Building Authority with a $12 million appropriation to meet debt payments on the State Office Tower and other buildings.

"The balance of this fiscal year is pretty well wrapped up," Collier told newsmen. He said he was "cautiously optimistic" about the fiscal year beginning July 1. On previous occasions, the finance chief has warned that the state could face severe problems in meeting its fiscal obligations in the second year of the biennium.

In addition to leaving the $31,500 budget job—he claimed he didn't know his exact salary—Collier retired as chairman of the Governor's Committee on Interstate Cooperation and as chairman of the Elected Officials and Judicial Compensation Review Commission.

"I have said publicly for more than a decade that you are Ohio's greatest governor," he wrote to Rhodes. "I will fondly remember the close relationship we had in your two previous terms as governor and your farsighted programs that changed the face and attitude of our great state."

That fond relationship was tested last year when Rhodes withdrew support for Collier's proposal to require businesses to pay the annual corporate franchise tax on a quarterly basis.

The governor said the adjustment would be too great a hardship on business, and while Collier never repudiated his own proposal, neither did he choose to challenge Rhodes on the issue. It was deleted from the budget.

Property Tax Deductions OKd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives approved 70-25 and sent the Senate Wednesday a bill permitting Ohioans to take property tax deductions for improvements they make in their homes.

Passage came over complaints that action should be withheld pending consideration of other broader property tax relief proposals under study in legislative committees.

The bill would allow a homeowner living on his homestead, or an owner of rental property, to deduct for improvements up to a third of the homestead value, or $10,000 — whichever is less — for five years. Improvements would not be restricted as to their nature, but the tax benefit would end if the property were sold or transferred to someone other than a blood relative.

Jaycees Sponsor Many Community Projects

The Circleville Jaycees sponsor a number of special community projects during the course of the year. Each year the organization colors about 20 dozen eggs and hides them around the school yard at Brooks Yates School. Last year after the hunt the members distributed candy donated by Wards Cardinal Market, coloring books and Easter baskets made by a Brownie Troop directed by Marsha Horsh.

BIG PROJECT — Santa Claus House at the corner of Main and Court Streets is one of the many community projects sponsored by the Circleville Jaycees during the course of the year.

For several years the Circleville Jaycees have sponsored and conducted a track meet for the Pickaway County School District. The annual event is generally held in the latter part of May and takes from two to three months to program, prepare materials and line up Jaycee manpower.

The junior champ track meet is a project that gives the area athletes a chance to compete against their peers in track and field events in which they are best qualified. It also gives them a chance to qualify for state competition. The meet offers approximately 50 events in various age groups in track and field. The State Jaycee track meet is held in July.

Originated in 1947 by the Youth Canteen, the Little Miss Pumpkin Show parade and contest have gained widespread popularity.

Since its formation, the mini queen contest has grown until it draws approximately 130 participants annually. This past year the organization had 128 adorable little girls.

The Jaycees' parade chairman this past year was Ed Boyer. The judges for last year's contest were Miss Marti Bell, St. Petersburg, Fla., Sungoddess, Glen Willie, Ohio Jaycee president, and his wife, Cheryl.

Winner at the 1975 judging were Lori Fenneken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fenneken. Serving as first attendant was Michelle La Veck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leveck, and second attendant, Gina Carl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Carl.

Any girl can qualify if a resident of Circleville or the Pickaway County trading area and enrolled in the first grade of school, and must be sponsored by either a business establishment or a school.

This past year the Jaycees took over the sponsorship of the Pickaway County Fair Pet Parade. Another Pickaway county fair event sponsored by the Jaycees is the annual King and Queen contest.

The queen for this year's fair was Barbara Bolender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bolender, Route 4, and the king was Jim Fausnaugh, son of James Fausnaugh, Route 3. Alternates were Nancy Schein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schein, Route 1, Williamsport, and Jeff Reichelderfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Reichelderfer, Tarlton. Chairman was Ed Boyer.

The special Olympics of track and field events for the Students from schools for the mentally handicapped is also sponsored by the Jaycees. Students this year were from Brooks Yates, Orient Institute School and

Abortion Ruling Protest Target

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a decision three years ago, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled most abortions were legal. That event is being commemorated throughout Ohio today—mostly by protests.

The statehouse was to be picketed in Columbus and rallies and other protests were slated at abortion clinics around the state.

Many Roman Catholic churches were to toll their bells and special masses were to be sung.

Several proabortion organizations planned anniversary observances in Cleveland.

The Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights and the Cleveland Abortion Rights Action League were to co-sponsor an observance in "recognition of the significance of three years of freedom of choice as to the continuation of a pregnancy."

Josephine Preston Irwin of Cleveland, a frequent speaker on feminist issues who participated in women's rights activities early in the century, was to present an award to Dr. Jean Pilcher, also of Cleveland "in recognition of her many years of committed effort, first to abolish the restrictive abortion laws, and in the past three years, to support the Supreme Court decision." Both women are in their 80s.

Four busloads of Right to Life Society members from Cincinnati were to attend a prolife rally in Washington, D.C., and meet with their congressional representatives.

In Dayton, Right to Life Society members were to collect donations of food to be given to unwed mothers.

Students at St. Wendelin High School in Fostoria were to wear red armbands and march from their school to church to attend a special mass.

Bishop James W. Malone, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Youngstown said, "It is our belief that a nation proclaiming human dignity in God's sight should work to protect the rights of all, including those who cannot defend themselves."

Bishop John A. Donovan, head of the 19-county Roman Catholic Diocese of Pioneer School for the retarded.

The special olympics is a combined effort of Circleville, Ashville and Lancaster Jaycees. Blue Ribbon Dairy and Burdenburger contributed to program.

Christmas time is one of the busiest of the year for Jaycees. They help decorate the courthouse, distribute food baskets to needy families, sponsor the annual Christmas Parade the Friday after Thanksgiving and sponsor Santa's House downtown.

Fred Marshall was chairman of the parade and Santa's House, Jim Rose, Jim Mertes and Bob Conley cooperated to collect and distribute the baskets of food, and Larry Offenburg helped with putting up the courthouse lights.

Health Center Chief Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lawrence P. Benson, 33, of Durham, N.C. will be new superintendent of the Toledo Mental Health Center.

Dr. Timothy B. Moritz, director of the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said Benson will succeed Dr. Jankiel Barg, who has requested assignment as the center's chief medical officer.

Benson is now executive assistant at the Duke University Medical Center.

Murder Case Bond Rejected

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Circuit Judge Stanley Smith has denied bond for a Michigan youth indicted on first-degree murder charges in the New Year's Eve slaying of an Ohio girl.

Smith denied bond for Richard Woodrick Jr., 17, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was arrested Jan. 2 after authorities found the body of Linda Greenbaum, 16, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, on a beach on nearby Marco Island.

Woodrick's arraignment was set for Monday.

Ex-Cons Flood Country Music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Freddy Fender, Merle Haggard, David Allen Coe and Glen Sherley have something in common other than being established country music singers. They're all ex-cons.

Johnny Cash and Johnny Rodriguez served brief jail sentences, and Johnny Paycheck once was indicted on a check forgery charge and received a suspended sentence.

"These ex-convicts seem to understand the human emotions and feelings of country music fans," said Larry Baunach, a vice president for ABC Dot records. "This has always been the greatness of country music: people listen to the lyrics."

"These men have had highs and lows and they know what life is all about and seem to be able to convey it more emotionally than others. They know emotionalism."

Fender served three years in Angola State Prison in Louisiana on a 1960

marijuana possession conviction. Released in 1963, he toiled for 12 years until "Before The Next Teardrop Falls" became a hit and was voted 1975 single of the year by the Country Music Association.

"I don't think there's a better place for inspiration than prison," said Fender, who says he was "set up" for his arrest.

"In some ways it hurt and in some instances it helped," Coe said about how his string of jail terms affected his career.

"It was hard to get credit for instruments and things like that when I got out. But a lot of people identified with it as an image."

"When I got out on parole, I went to West Virginia and played in little places — bars, places like that," he said. "I went to Nashville in 1968 when I got off parole."

Haggard began serious performing and writing between 1958 and 1960 while serving two years and nine months in San Quentin for burglary and escape.

He was chosen entertainer of the year by the CMA in 1970 and his "Okie from Muskogee" is a classic.

Sherley did 10 years at the Vacaville Institution in California for armed robbery. When he was released in 1971, he joined the Johnny Cash troupe.

Cash, contrary to popular belief, has never served time in prison. But he has said he spent seven different "one nighters" in various jails.

Rodriguez was jailed in the Austin, Tex., area on a charge of stealing three goats when a Texas ranger heard him singing, called a country music promoter, who later became his manager, and got him on his way to success.

Paycheck was indicted in Nashville in 1972 on a check forgery charge. He received an 11-month, 29-day suspended sentence and was placed on three years' probation.

said a counter clerk. "They were so polite. One oriental girl—I think she was a tight rope walker—kept trying to overpay us for two lemons. She kept shoving me more money and I kept pushing it back."

"And they always left a 15 per cent tip. They were very careful about that," said Miss Martin.

The hotel maids smelled the late-night meals and saw the dirty dishes the next day. "But we never found the hotplates. We think they hid them in the drawers under pillows. They were very secretive about it," said Thelma Rupp, a housekeeping supervisor.

"They cooked up a big stew every night before their act," said Bill Barrett, director of events at Riverfront Coliseum.

The hotel maids noticed something else; a habit apparently universal.

"They slept late and left their rooms in a mess," one grumbled.

U.S. Food Hard On Russians

CINCINNATI (AP) — Touring Soviet Circus troupers apparently don't share—or can't stomach—the average American's appetite for hamburgers and pizza on a daily basis.

They're resorting to home cooking in their hotel rooms as they barnstorm the U.S. on a two-month, 13-city visit.

The 70-member company departed Cincinnati Monday for Chicago, accompanied by the odor of onion, garlic and vodka.

"They eat onions like we eat apples," said hotel maid Margaret Freeman, who found the the circus performers' rooms littered with cans of caviar, sacks of potatoes and "a lot of different kinds of beer."

The circus, complete with dancing bears and tight rope acrobats, ended a rave-filled week in Cincinnati Monday night as the worst snow storm of the year hit.

"They told us they felt right at home in our weather," said Helen Martin, a restaurant supervisor for Stouffer's Inn.

Bundled for winter in their traditional fur-covered Cossack caps and heavy coats, the neckcracking Soviet visitors were as big an attraction on Cincinnati sidewalks as they were performing in the city's new $20 million Riverfront Coliseum.

They went on sightseeing strolls to Fountain Square, the 100-year old symbol of Cincinnati's downtown area and surveyed the breezy riverfront, where Samuel Clement plied the Ohio River as a boathand and later wrote his boyhood tales under the penname of Mark Twain.

The more adventurous showed up in mod American dress and minus their telltale fur caps at some lively night-spots to gawk at the latest dance crazes—"The Bump" and "The Hustle."

One downtown music shop reported a brisk business selling hit records and longplay ballroom albums. The Kopeck-conscious Soviet shopped for bargains in 30-story skyscrapers. Others coveted packs of American cigarettes.

A delicatessen near the hotel was sold out of fresh eggs in a two-hour period.

Jaycees Sponsor Many Community Projects

The Circleville Jaycees sponsor a number of special community projects during the course of the year. Each year the organization colors about 20 dozen eggs and hides them around the school yard at Brooks Yates School. Last year after the hunt the members distributed candy donated by Wards Cardinal Market, coloring books and Easter baskets made by a Brownie Troop directed by Marsha Horsh.

For several years the Circleville Jaycees have sponsored and conducted a track meet for the Pickaway County School District. The annual event is generally held in the latter part of May and takes from two to three months to program, prepare materials and line up Jaycee manpower. The junior champ track meet is a project that gives the area athletes a chance to compete against their peers in track and field events in which they are best qualified. It also gives them a chance to qualify for state competition. The meet offers approximately 50 events in various age groups in track and field. The State Jaycee track meet is held in July. Originated in 1947 by the Youth Canteen, the Little Miss Pumpkin Show parade and contest have gained widespread popularity. Since its formation, the mini queen contest has grown until it draws approximately 130 participants annually. This past year the organization had 128 adorable little girls.

The Jaycees' parade chairman this past year was Ed Boyer. The judges for last year's contest were Miss Marti Bell, St. Petersburg, Fla., Sungoddess, Glen Willie, Ohio Jaycee president, and his wife, Cheryl. Winner at the 1975 judging were Lori Fenneken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fenneken. Serving as first attendant was Michelle La Veck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leveck, and second attendant, Gina Carl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Carl.

Any girl can qualify if a resident of Circleville or the Pickaway County trading area and enrolled in the first grade of school, and must be sponsored by either a business establishment or a school.

This past year the Jaycees took over the sponsorship of the Pickaway County Fair Pet Parade. Another Pickaway county fair event sponsored by the Jaycees is the annual King and Queen contest.

The queen for this year's fair was Barbara Bolender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bolender, Route 4, and the king was Jim Fausnaugh, son of James Fausnaugh, Route 3. Alternates were Nancy Schein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schein, Route 1, Williamsport, and Jeff Reichelderfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Reichelderfer, Tarlton. Chairman was Ed Boyer.

The special Olympics of track and field events for the Students from schools for the mentally handicapped is also sponsored by the Jaycees. Students this year were from Brooks Yates, Orient Institute School and

Abortion Ruling Protest Target

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a decision three years ago, the U.S. Supreme court ruled most abortions were legal. That event is being commemorated throughout Ohio today—mostly by protests.

The statehouse was to be picketed in Columbus and rallies and other protests were slated at abortion clinics around the state.

Many Roman Catholic churches were to toll their bells and special masses were to be sung.

Several proabortion organizations planned anniversary observances in Cleveland.

The Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights and the Cleveland Abortion Rights Action League were to co-sponsor an observance in "recognition of the significance of three years of freedom of choice as to the continuation of a pregnancy."

Josephine Preston Irwin of Cleveland, a frequent speaker on feminist issues who participated in women's rights activities early in the century, was to present an award to Dr. Jean Pilcher, also of Cleveland "in recognition of her many years of committed effort, first to abolish the restrictive abortion laws, and in the past three years, to support the Supreme Court decision." Both women are in their 80s.

Four busloads of Right to Life Society members from Cincinnati were to attend a prolife rally in Washington, D.C., and meet with their congressional representatives.

In Dayton, Right to Life Society members were to collect donations of food to be given to unwed mothers. Students at St. Wendelin High School in Fostoria were to wear red armbands and march from their school to church to attend a special mass.

Bishop James W. Malone, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Youngstown said, "It is our belief that a nation proclaiming human dignity in God's sight should work to protect the rights of all, including those who cannot defend themselves."

Bishop John A. Donovan, head of the 19-county Roman Catholic Diocese of Pioneer School for the retarded.

The special olympics is a combined effort of Circleville, Ashville and Lancaster Jaycees. Blue Ribbon Dairy and Burdenburger contributed to program.

Christmas time is one of the busiest of the year for Jaycees. They help decorate the courthouse, distribute food baskets to needy families, sponsor the annual Christmas Parade the Friday after Thanksgiving and sponsor Santa's House downtown.

Fred Marshall was chairman of the parade and Santa's House, Jim Roes, Jim Mertes and Bob Conley cooperated to collect and distribute the baskets of food, and Larry Offenburg helped with putting up the courthouse lights.

Ex-Cons Flood Country Music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Freddy Fender, Merle Haggard, David Allen Coe and Glen Sherley have something in common other than being established country music singers. They're all ex-cons.

Johnny Cash and Johnny Rodriguez served brief jail sentences, and Johnny Paycheck once was indicted on a check forgery charge and received a suspended sentence.

"These ex-convicts seem to understand the human emotions and feelings of country music fans," said Larry Baunach, a vice president for ABC Dot records. "This has always been the greatness of country music: people listen to the lyrics."

"These men have had highs and lows and they know what life is all about and seem to be able to convey it more emotionally than others. They know emotionalism."

Fender served three years in Angola State Prison in Louisiana on a 1960

marijuana possession conviction. Released in 1963, he toiled for 12 years until "Before The Next Teardrop Falls" became a hit and was voted 1975 single of the year by the Country Music Association.

"I don't think there's a better place for inspiration than prison," said Fender, who says he was "set up" for his arrest.

"In some ways it hurt and in some instances it helped," Coe said about how his string of jail terms affected his career.

"It was hard to get credit for instruments and things like that when I got out. But a lot of people identified with it as an image."

"When I got out on parole, I went to West Virginia and played in little places — bars, places like that," he said. "I went to Nashville in 1968 when I got off parole."

Haggard began serious performing and writing between 1958 and 1960 while serving two years and nine months in San Quentin for burglary and escape.

He was chosen entertainer of the year by the CMA in 1970 and his "Okie from Muskogee" is a classic.

Sherley did 10 years at the Vacaville Institution in California for armed robbery. When he was released in 1971, he joined the Johnny Cash troupe.

Cash, contrary to popular belief, has never served time in prison. But he has said he spent seven different "one nighters" in various jails.

Rodriguez was jailed in the Austin, Tex., area on a charge of stealing three goats when a Texas ranger heard him singing, called a country music promoter, who later became his manager, and got him on his way to success.

Paycheck was indicted in Nashville in 1972 on a check forgery charge. He received an 11-month, 29-day suspended sentence and was placed on three years' probation.

U.S. Food Hard On Russians

CINCINNATI (AP) — Touring Soviet Circus troupers apparently don't share—or can't stomach—the average American's appetite for hamburgers and pizza on a daily basis.

They're resorting to home cooking in their hotel rooms as they barnstorm the U.S. on a two-month, 13-city visit.

The 70-member company departed Cincinnati Monday for Chicago, accompanied by the odor of onion, garlic and vodka.

"They eat onions like we eat apples," said hotel maid Margaret Freeman, who found the the circus performers' rooms littered with cans of caviar, sacks of potatoes and "a lot of different kinds of beer."

The circus, complete with dancing bears and tight rope acrobats, ended a rave-filled week in Cincinnati Monday night as the worst snow storm of the year hit.

"They told us they felt right at home in our weather," said Helen Martin, a restaurant supervisor for Stouffer's Inn.

Bundled for winter in their traditional fur-covered Cossack caps and heavy coats, the neckcraning Soviet visitors were as big an attraction on Cincinnati sidewalks as they were performing in the city's new $20 million Riverfront Coliseum.

They went on sightseeing strolls to Fountain Square, the 100-year old symbol of Cincinnati's downtown area and surveyed the breezy riverfront, where Samuel Clement pled the Ohio River as a boathand and later wrote his boyhood tales under the penname of Mark Twain.

The more adventurous showed up in mod American dress and minus their telltale fur caps at some lively night-spots to gawk at the latest dance crazes—"The Bump" and "The Hustle."

One downtown music shop reported a brisk business selling hit records and longplay ballroom albums. The Kopeck-conscious Soviet shopped for bargains in 30-story skyscrapers. Others coveted packs of American cigarettes.

A delicatessen near the hotel was sold out of fresh eggs in a two-hour period.

"They bought a lot of butter too,"

said a counter clerk. "They were so polite. One oriental girl—I think she was a tight rope walker—kept trying to overpay us for two lemons. She kept shoving me more money and I kept pushing it back."

Most dined on hearty breakfasts of bacon and eggs—"everybody ordered the same thing"—and orange juice and tea.

"And they always left a 15 per cent tip. They were very careful about that," said Miss Martin.

The hotel maids smelled the late-night meals and saw the dirty dishes the next day. "But we never found the hotplates. We think they hid them in the drawers under pillows. They were very secretive about it," said Thelma Rupp, a housekeeping supervisor.

"They cooked up a big stew every night before their act," said Bill Barrett, director of events at Riverfront Coliseum.

The hotel maids noticed something else; a habit apparently universal.

"They slept late and left their rooms in a mess," one grumbled.

First $100 Billion Defense Budget Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today recommended the nation's first $100 billion spending budget for defense, designed to maintain a military balance with Russia while seeking agreements to curb nuclear arms and other forces.

Ford's proposed $100.1 billion defense budget for next fiscal year tops this year's record level by $8.9 billion.

Most of the increase is earmarked for buying additional advanced warplanes, tanks, ships and other new arms, as well as for improving the readiness of equipment already in hand.

In the strategic-arms field, Ford called for continued development of new nuclear weapons, including long-range airbreathing cruise missiles which could be launched from bombers, submarines and surface ships.

The future of such missiles represents a major sticking point in negotiations with the Soviet Union on nuclear arms limitations.

However, Ford's budget contains no proposal for major new weapons programs beyond those already under way.

"The United States seeks to reduce military expenditures and international tensions through negotiations," Ford told Congress in his budget message.

"Effective agreements can be reached, however, only if United States and allied forces remain at least as strong as those of potential adversaries," the President said.

The administration's budget presentation was without any saber-rattling, although Secretary of Defense Donald H. Rumsfeld stressed that Soviet defense spending has been increasing steadily over the past decade while U.S. military outlays have been decreasing in real terms — that is, taking inflation into account.

"Momentum on the part of the Soviet Union heightens the danger that the U.S. national security posture could lose its deterrent value in the years ahead, unless positive steps are taken now," Rumsfeld said in a statement.

"This budget provides for essential real growth which will insure that the United States can fulfill its objectives of mutual security, international stability and peace," he said.

At the same time, Rumsfeld said, "the budget reflects a serious effort to achieve restraint." By this, Rumsfeld apparently meant that the United States is proceeding with measured development of new nuclear weapons and is holding back, for now, on any acceleration.

The $100.1-billion spending plan for fiscal 1977 is about $3 billion bigger than the budget James R. Schlesinger balked at accepting shortly before Ford fired him in November.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

What fun it is to examine new worlds among the pages of a book! New books have arrived in the Children's Room this week, so try the newest worlds opened!

"Katy's Kitty" by Syd Hoff is a delightful book containing three stories about kittens. The stories tell how Katy finds her cat, the cat's growth, and about small kittens. Rules on care of cats are given at the end of each chapter. Sure to please the young child.

For the ecology minded child "Blue Bug's Beach Party" by Virginia Poulet is the newest book in this series. Before they can have their beach party, Blue Bug and his friends have to clean the litter off the beach. A good book for the beginning reader as it has pictures that illustrate the words on each page.

In these days when most children are interested in dinosaurs, it's helpful to know that the Children's Room has lots of those books on hand. "If I Rode A Dinosaur" by Miriam Young is our newest dinosaur book. The book is about a boy who imagines himself riding all the dinosaurs. A short description is given for each dinosaur. An easy book for the younger child.

"The Painter and the Bird" by Max Velthuis is a touching story. An artist paints a picture of a beautiful bird and reluctantly sells the painting. He misses the bird and the bird misses the artist. The bird flies out of the picture and goes in search of the artist.

If you are teaching your child colors, a good teaching aid would be "Calico Cat's Rainbow" by Donald Charles. Each color of the rainbow is shown with two examples. For instance, purple grapes and purple plums. Learning about color can be fun — as you will see in this book!

"Night-Lite Storybook" by Robert Kraus is a collection of one page stories about the adventures and activities of the Night-Lite Kids throughout the year. This book is certain to spark your child's imagination.

Whatever your reading pleasure, come in and help your child discover the wonderful world of books.

Snow continued to fall across most of Ohio last night and today, with amounts early today ranging from two to four inches in the northeast to one to three inches elsewhere.

Brisk west to northwest winds have caused considerable drifting and blowing snow.

A travelers advisory was to continue in the northeastern counties today as visibilities were to become restricted at times and roadways slick and slippery.

An additional two to three inches of snow will fall in the northeast during the day and about one to two inches over the remainder of Ohio.

The January snowfall for the Akron-Canton airport already has set a record for the greatest total snowfall since 1887. The airport reported more than 20 inches of snow has fallen so far this month, compared with the old record of 17.6 inches.

Weather observers reported 10 inches of snow on the ground in Kent, 16 in the Mantua.

Temperatures will remain cold with highs today and Friday climbing only into the 20s.

The snow will begin letting up tonight, but another batch is headed into Ohio Friday.

The extended outlook forecasts continued precipitation for the remainder of the week and the beginning of next week.

PET OF THE WEEK — This Cocker Spaniel is this week's Pickaway County Humane Society's Pet of the Week. It can be claimed at the Pickaway County Animal Shelter, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 8 to 4. Information can be obtained at 474-1395 and 474-3741. The Pickaway County Humane Society reminds you that outdoor dogs require special care during the winter months. A house should be provided to protect him from wind and rain. Bedding such as straw, cloth, or shredded paper will help the dog preserve his body heat. Winter's low temperatures make water freeze quickly. Thus, fresh warm water should be provided two or three times a day. Dogs that are not acclimated to cold temperatures should not be left outdoors for long periods of time. During extremely cold weather, even the heartiest dog should be provided a source of heat.

PET OF THE WEEK — This Cocker Spaniel is this week's Pickaway County Humane Society's Pet of the Week. It can be claimed at the Pickaway County Animal Shelter, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 8 to 4. Information can be obtained at 474-1395 and 474-3741. The Pickaway County Humane Society reminds you that outdoor dogs require special care during the winter months. A house should be provided to protect him from wind and rain. Bedding such as straw, cloth, or shredded paper will help the dog preserve his body heat. Winter's low temperatures make water freeze quickly. Thus, fresh warm water should be provided two or three times a day. Dogs that are not acclimated to cold temperatures should not be left outdoors for long periods of time. During extremely cold weather, even the heartiest dog should be provided a source of heat.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): An auspicious period. If you cooperate smartly, you can make up for any lost time and break through any barriers to new attainment. Personal relationships highly favored.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): All may not go exactly as you desire, but you will find many advantages, anyway — if you look carefully in all areas.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your innate perceptiveness will prove a great asset now. Through it, you will get a brand new slant on a puzzling job situation.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Influences somewhat adverse. If certain negotiations are pending, try to postpone decisions until Monday, when aspects will be more propitious.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Turbulent waters in some areas, but you are made of the stuff that doesn't collapse at the first sign of opposition or difficulty. Be your philosophical self.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't hesitate to take up apprenticeship in something new if it is worthwhile, no matter what your age. No one has a monopoly on improvement.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations — all promising to be beneficial.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Don't sidestep obligations in favor of more desirable activities. You have a lot going for you, so it would be foolish to offset efforts of the past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Don't undertake anything without knowing proper procedure. Find out how associates think and feel. Excellent progress indicated through alert thinking and action.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Your intuition should be strong now; but double-check to make sure you are not overlooking small details. Thus, all should go well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Pay not attention to dissenters or pessimists. Go about your work and other activities with good will and a bit of finesse. You can have an unusually satisfactory day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Business and financial matters slated for immediate advancement; also for future gains. But take no risks; conservative management stressed.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with an extraordinarily keen mind, are precise and meticulous and have a high potential for success and happiness. You have a tendency to be too voluble, however, and thus could alienate associates, so try to curb it. Be more tolerant with those who are not as gifted as yourself. The fields of education, diplomacy, sociology, finance and writing suit your many talents, and you could succeed in any of them.

Muskegon

Defeats Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton maintained its grip on first place in the International Hockey League's South Division, despite losing to Muskegon, 4-3, Wednesday night.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Tyler Moore steps out of her sitcom tonight and into a musical fantasy CBS calls "Mary's Incredible Dream." Incredible it is. Even a good analyst couldn't figure it out, I'd bet.

A brochure on this costly one hour venture describes it thus:

"It encompasses the story of the casting out of Satan from heaven; Adam and Eve, their temptation and fall from grace; the dark age of the caveman; man's renewal and rebirth as epitomized by the pioneers of the Old West; a reviving and growing corruption, culminating in a world-destroying flood, a la the story of Noah; a new rebirth and its inevitable corruption, this time culminating in the madness of World War II and the continuing threat of man-made self-destruction via the atomic bomb; and finally, redemption."

And that's only the opening number (nah, just kidding). Created by Jack Good, a chap CBS says is a British musicologist, the show has Mary leaping and singing her way through no less than 30 production numbers, cast as "Angel, Devil and Woman."

Broadway's Ben Vereen shows up as "Devil, Noah and Man," country music's Doug Kershaw plays "Adam, Devil and War" and an art deco singing group, the Manhattan Transfer, are "Angels, Onlookers and Devils."

Also on hand are conductor Arthur Fiedler, cast as a heavenly maestro, the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra, the Los Angeles Master Chorale, the California Boys Choir and a whole bunch of singers and dancers.

As the title suggests, the idea is that Mary is having this wild dream. You know it's wild because the Manhattan Transfer keeps appearing in scenes that range from heaven to hell, singing songs of the late '30s while an "On the Air" sign flashes behind them.

Vereen is constantly leaping about, giggling and chortling as the devil. Kershaw also leaps about, singing and playing fiddle so hard that his hat fell off in one scene.

They, Miss Moore and the dancers engage in sequences so frenzied one suspects a saboteur put itching powder in their knickers.

There's also thunder, lightning, rain, clouds of billowing smoke and even a nifty post-flood scene in which the stars float about on two giant white paper-mache hands, singing at each other.

The brochure for the show says tonight's program "may well stand as a television landmark."

It will — as a noisy testament to the fact that creator Jack Good put a mighty tussle with the muse and lose.

Cincinnati Stingers

Stop Crusaders

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Stingers Coach Terry Slater said he "bawled out" his team strongly between periods to convince them of the need for a victory over the Cleveland Crusaders.

"I explained to them that a victory was needed to gain three points on Cleveland and move within five points of New England," the leaders in the World Hockey Association Eastern Division. Cincinnati's 8-2 victory kept them second, ahead of third place Cleveland.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): An auspicious period. If you cooperate smartly, you can make up for any lost time and break through any barriers to new attainment. Personal relationships highly favored.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): All may not go exactly as you desire, but you will find many advantages, anyway - if you look carefully in all areas.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your innate perceptiveness will prove a great asset now. Through it, you will get a brand new slant on a puzzling job situation.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Influences somewhat adverse. If certain negotiations are pending, try to postpone decisions until Monday, when aspects will be more propitious.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Turbulent waters in some areas, but you are made of the stuff that doesn't collapse at the first sign of opposition or difficulty. Be your philosophical self.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't hesitate to take up apprenticeship in something new if it is worthwhile, no matter what your age. No one has a monopoly on improvement.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations - all promising to be beneficial.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Don't sidestep obligations in favor of more desirable activities. You have a lot going for you, so it would be foolish to offset efforts of the past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Don't undertake anything without knowing proper procedure. Find out how associates think and feel. Excellent progress indicated through alert thinking and action.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Your intuition should be strong now; but double-check to make sure you are not overlooking small details. Thus, all should go well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Pay not attention to dissenters or pessimists. Go about your work and other activities with good will and a bit of finesse. You can have an unusually satisfactory day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Business and financial matters slated for immediate advancement; also for future gains. But take no risks; conservative management stressed.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with an extraordinarily keen mind, are precise and meticulous and have a high potential for success and happiness. You have a tendency to be too voluble, however, and thus could alienate associates, so try to curb it. Be more tolerant with those who are not as gifted as yourself. The fields of education, diplomacy, sociology, finance and writing suit your many talents, and you could succeed in any of them.

Muskegon Defeats Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - Dayton maintained its grip on first place in the International Hockey League's South Division, despite losing to Muskegon, 4-3, Wednesday night.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) - Mary Tyler Moore steps out of her sitcom tonight and into a musical fantasy CBS calls "Mary's Incredible Dream." Incredible it is. Even a good analyst couldn't figure it out, I'd bet.

A brochure on this costly one hour venture describes it thus:

"It encompasses the story of the casting out of Satan from heaven; Adam and Eve, their temptation and fall from grace; the dark age of the caveman; man's renewal and rebirth as epitomized by the pioneers of the Old West; a reviving and growing corruption, culminating in a world-destroying flood, a la the story of Noah; a new rebirth and its inevitable corruption, this time culminating in the madness of World War II and the continuing threat of man-made self-destruction via the atomic bomb; and finally, redemption."

And that's only the opening number (nah, just kidding). Created by Jack Good, a chap CBS says is a British musicologist, the show has Mary leaping and singing her way through no less than 30 production numbers, cast as "Angel, Devil and Woman."

Broadway's Ben Vereen shows up as "Devil, Noah and Man," country music's Doug Kershaw plays "Adam, Devil and War" and an art deco singing group, the Manhattan Transfer, are "Angels, Onlookers and Devils."

Also on hand are conductor Arthur Fiedler, cast as a heavenly maestro, the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra, the Los Angeles Master Chorale, the California Boys Choir and a whole bunch of singers and dancers.

As the title suggests, the idea is that Mary is having this wild dream. You know it's wild because the Manhattan Transfer keeps appearing in scenes that range from heaven to hell, singing songs of the late '30s while an "On the Air" sign flashes behind them.

Vereen is constantly leaping about, giggling and chortling as the devil. Kershaw also leaps about, singing and playing fiddle so hard that his hat fell off in one scene.

They, Miss Moore and the dancers engage in sequences so frenzied one suspects a saboteur put itching powder in their knickers.

There's also thunder, lightning, rain, clouds of billowing smoke and even a nifty post-flood scene in which the stars float about on two giant white paper-mache hands, singing at each other.

The brochure for the show says tonight's program "may well stand as a television landmark."

It will - as a noisy testament to the fact that creator Jack Good put a mighty tussle with the muse and lose.

Cincinnati Stingers Stop Crusaders

CINCINNATI (AP) - Cincinnati Stingers Coach Terry Slater said he "bawled out" his team strongly between periods to convince them of the need for a victory over the Cleveland Crusaders.

"I explained to them that a victory was needed to gain three points on Cleveland and move within five points of New England," the leaders in the World Hockey Association Eastern Division. Cincinnati's 8-2 victory kept them second, ahead of third place Cleveland.

Hall Of Fame Vote Scheduled

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's Hall of Fame swings its doors open again today with Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon, two of the game's finest pitchers during the 1950s, hoping to walk through.

To be elected, candidates must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots cast by 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. Roberts, who won 286 games in 19 major league seasons, fell nine votes short of the required 75 per cent last year and Lemon, who won 207 games, was 39 votes away.

The writers elected only one man last year, naming slugger Ralph Kiner in his 15th and final season of eligibility. Three other top 1975 finishers, Hal Newhouse, Phil Cavarretta and Johnny Sain, were in their final year on the writers' ballots and were not included among the 32 names available to BBWA members in the current election.

Eventually, their names will be turned over to the old-timers committee for consideration by that body. Others who received more than 100 votes last year were Gil Hodges, Enos Slaughter, Pee Wee Reese, Ed Mathews, Duke Snider, Phil Rizzuto and George Kell.

Two new names, Del Crandall and Eloy Face, survived examination by a screening committee of the BBWA and were added to the ballot this year. To be considered for election, a player must perform in the major leagues for 10 seasons and also be retired for five years. Only twice — for Lou Gehrig, who was dying of bone cancer and Roberto Clemente, killed in a plane crash — have those rules been waived.

Because he came so close to being named last year, Roberts was the favorite for the 1976 election. An ambitious public relations campaign was conducted by supporters of Lemon, who finished third in last year's vote. Besides sending a list of their man's credentials, Lemon's backers also mailed voters a reminder of where their loyalties lie — a bright, yellow lemon.

Roberts had six straight 20-victory seasons for the Philadelphia Phillies beginning in 1950 when the team won the National League pennant. In 1952, he compiled his best single season with a 28-7 record.

Lemon, who started out as an infielder-outfielder, won 20 or more games seven times over a stretch of nine years. He didn't try serious pitching until 1946. Two years later, he had a 20-14 record as the Cleveland Indians won the American League pennant. His best record was 23-7 in 1954 when Cleveland won another pennant.

After retiring as an active player, Lemon managed the Kansas City Royals for 2 1/2 seasons. Last month, he was named pitching coach of the New York Yankees.

Braves Rip Atlanta; Win 102-94

By The Associated Press
The Atlanta Hawks gave Bob McAdoo a tough time, but not half as tough as he gave them.

"He's the best," said Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons after McAdoo's 30 points led the Buffalo Braves to a 102-94 National Basketball Association victory over his team Wednesday night.

"If you want the bottom line on this game, that's it. They had a superstar to go to and they went to him."

McAdoo was doubled-teamed and belted around a bit, but still managed to hurt the Hawks.

"This was the most physical game I have played all year," said the NBA's leading scorer. "There were lots of calls that were very questionable."

"The Hawks are a very aggressive team going to the boards and playing defense. I was being held all night long. Calls have to be made when you are held. I was fouled on my shots time after time without a foul being called."

In the night's other NBA games, the Boston Celtics beat the Phoenix Suns 114-100; the Chicago Bulls defeated the New Orleans Jazz 102-93 and the Detroit Pistons downed the Seattle SuperSonics 111-104. In the American Basketball Association, the Kentucky Colonels trimmed the New York Nets 100-91 and the Indiana Pacers outscored the Virginia Squires 119-106.

McAdoo, who scored 11 fourth-period points, took charge after the Hawks got to within 94-92 with 1:45 left to play. The Buffalo center scored two baskets in the next 35 seconds to give the Braves a comfortable 98-92 margin. Jim McMillian aided McAdoo with 10 of his 19 points in the last period.

NEW YORK (AP) — Base-

Robin Roberts and Bob finest pitchers during the 1950s, hoping to walk through.

To be elected, candidates must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots cast by 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. Roberts, who won 286 games in 19 major league seasons, fell nine votes short of the required 75 per cent last year and Lemon, who won 207 games, was 39 votes away.

The writers elected only one man last year, naming slugger Ralph Kiner in his 15th and final season of eligibility. Three other top 1975 finishers, Hal
Newhouse, Phil Cavarretta and Johnny Sain, were in their final year on the writers' ballots and were not available to BBWA members in the current election.

Eventually, their names will

Wind-Whipped Flames Rage Over California Brushland

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Wind-whipped flames swirled across about 2,400 acres of tinder-dry brush above this seaside resort, burning at least 21 expensive homes and approaching, at one point, the home of ex-President Richard M. Nixon.

At least 12 persons were injured and hundreds fled their homes Wednesday as the fire spread from its starting point at the Marine Corps base at camp Pendleton right up to their back porches, firemen said. Fire damage to homes was estimated at more than $1 million.

Fire officials reported after nightfall that the blaze had been encircled, but they wouldn't predict how long it would take to control the fire.

The blaze that swept down on various canyon housing developments came within 1½ miles of Nixon's ocean-front villa, located on the coast about midway between Los Angeles and San Diego. Nixon was apparently inside the house at the time.

The fire would have to cross several major thoroughfares, including the

Pilot Error Said To Blame In Fatal Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board ruled Wednesday that pilot error probably caused a Trans World Airlines jet carrying 92 persons to slam into the side of a northern Virginia mountain a year ago, killing all on board.

TWA Flight 514, flying through a severe storm at more than 260 miles per hour, slammed into the top of Mt. Weather, in the Blue Ridge Mountains on Dec. 1, 1974. The flight had originated at Indianapolis, Ind., with a stop at Columbus, Ohio, and was on its final approach into Dulles International Airport outside Washington when it crashed.

The federal panel concluded on a 3-to-2 vote that the pilots of the plane were probably responsible for the crash. The two dissenting members would have assigned probable blame to both the ground-based air traffic controllers and the pilots.

The board questioned the wisdom of the action taken by the air traffic controller and also cited the Federal Aviation Administration, which employs the controllers, for failure to clear up the "confusion and misinterpretation of air traffic terminology although the agency had been aware of the problem for several years."

The ruling will have no effect on the lawsuits filed as a result of the crash. TWA and the FAA since have agreed to share the liability and damages in the lawsuits.

TWA Flight 514 was flying at 7,000 feet and was 44 miles from the airport when a Dulles air controller told the pilot the flight had been cleared for an approach to the airport runway.

The pilot concluded this clearance gave him authority to descend to his initial approach altitude of 1,800 feet and began to do so. Three minutes later, after looking at the airport approach charts, he questioned whether the plane should be descending but decided his initial conclusion was correct.

The plane at that point was flying at 2,800 feet—already 600 feet below the minimum altitude published on the approach chart. It continued descending until the radio altimeter horn sounded a warning that the plane was near the ground.

The final words on the cockpit tape recorder had the captain saying "Get some power on." The plane struck the mountain two seconds later.

San Diego Freeway, to get to the former Western White House.

Cinders rained down on the former president's lawn and thick smoke blanketed the sky earlier in the day. Nixon himself made no official comment, but an aide said, "You sure can tell" the fire is near.

"It's a nightmare," Jay Durkin, who abandoned his home as the fire approached Wednesday night, told a reporter by telephone.

"You can't see across from my house for the smoke. The whole hill is ablaze. The fire department just came in, and I've got to get out now," he said.

"We're being overrun," said one reporter on the scene. "The smoke is so thick I can hardly see. There are sparks falling all over the place. Several homes are burning. Women and children have been pulled out and the men are gathering belongings from their homes."

A Marine Corps spokesman said the blaze may have been accidentally started at Pendleton by Marine engineers working at a pistol range in Christianitos Canyon, which like much of Southern California is suffering from a nine-month drought.

The fire broke electric power lines stretching across the Marine base and caused power blackouts for 22,000 residents of San Clemente.

South Africa Pulling Out Of Angola?

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials have received reports that South African military units have been ordered to pull out of Angola.

Without the support provided by South African troops, pro-Western soldiers in Southern Angola will be unable to repel the more heavily armed pro-Soviet Angolan forces and their Cuban allies, sources say.

Meanwhile, Pentagon officials said Russian navy units have pulled back about 2,000 miles from the Angolan coast.

They said the nearest U.S. surface ship to Angola is the guided-missile cruiser Little Rock, which is on what is described as a good will visit to Casablanca, Morocco, some 3,000 miles from the war.

U.S. officials have been increasingly pessimistic about the prospects for Western-backed forces since the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) and Cuban troops overran Northern Angola last week.

On the basis of information received since then, intelligence analysts said the Russians appear disinterested in any negotiated settlement among the contending Angolan parties because the MPLA and the Cubans seem to be winning.

In the wake of the defeat of Western-backed forces in Northern Angola, U.S. intelligence sources said South African units have begun moving southward from forward bases in central and southern Angola.

U.S. analysts believe the South African decision to pull out of the war may have been spurred by increasing opposition at home to the Angola involvement and because South African strategists may have concluded they face a necessity of committing more troops to counter a growing Cuban fighting force.

Some analysts think the Western-backed National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA) may abandon conventional war and resort to guerrilla tactics after the South Africans leave.

As battlefield momentum swung against the Western-backed forces, Russia and Cuba were reported increasing direct support to the MPLA.

Utility Fined Over Tree Loss

CLEVELAND (AP) — Probate Judge Ralph Locher slapped the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. with a $7,400 contempt-of-court fine Wednesday and ordered the utility to replace 15 trees in the Cuyahoga Valley National Park.

Locher found CEI in contempt for disregarding his order last year enjoining the utility from installing lines in the park. He ordered the company to complete restoration by April 1977 of the park area where the Ohio Department of Natural Resources said CEI had cleared land and installed utility poles.

However, Locher modified his order so CEI can install high-voltage lines to serve Republic Steel Corp., which said it must have the power to meet federal orders to clean up plant emissions. Republic's chief district engineer, David Poole, told Locher that without more power Republic can't meet the federal air standards and would have to shut down.

Urge Caution In State Tax Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Not everyone in the legislature is convinced the lawmakers should rush ahead quickly to enact property tax relief without the impact on local government revenues being fully known.

Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, admonished the House in a floor speech Wednesday that the members should look more closely at proposals that take away revenues from schools and other government entities which "need the money badly." Galbraith, a member of the House since 1967, said he recognized that "all of us want to get on the bandwagon for property tax relief," and while some proposals may have merit, "I'm fearful about the attitude that seems to prevail."

Galbraith was joined by another veteran conservative, Rep. Robert E. Netzley, R-81 Laura, is opposing a bill to give homeowners a tax reduction for improvements they make to their property.

Netzley was voted down 57-35 in an attempt to send the bill back to committee for consideration "at a later time." The bill eventually went to the Senate on a vote of 70-25.

The legislature heard from another source earlier Wednesday a suggestion that hasty plans for tax relief might be illconceived.

Dr. Frederick Stocker, testifying at a session of the legislature's Joint Economic Conference, said Ohio already has lower taxes generally than most other states.

The Senate-House panel is looking for ways to improve Ohio's economy.

Stocker, a professor of economics at Ohio State University, said Ohio, in 1973-1974, was 42nd among 50 states in total general revenue per capita from tax sources.

The joint conference, which resumes its deliberations next week, is looking at taxation as only one of many factors it feels are affecting Ohio's current economic slump.

Corn Acreage Rise Seen By Farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers are anticipating an 6.7 per cent increase in corn acreage over last year for 1976, the state crop reporting service said Wednesday.

The projected yield would be 4 million acres, a 250,000-acre increase over last year's production of 3.75 million acres, the service said. The 1975 yield slightly exceeded the crop reporting service's projection of 3.7 million acres.

The crop reporting service said changes in economic and weather conditions can influence farmers' decision on how much they plant, causing the difference in what they actually produce.

The intended acreage for soybeans this year is 2.95 million, 5 per cent below the 1975 planted acreage of 3.12 million acres. Last year at this time, Ohio farmers intended to plant 3.23 million acres.

Nationwide figures released Wednesday show that U.S. farmers intend to plant 80.8 million acres of corn, up 4 per cent from last year's planted acreage. Soybean production in the 27 major producing states is expected to be 50.9 million acres, almost 7 per cent below the 1975 acreage.

In other Ohio crop news released Wednesday, the service said hay stocks on Ohio farms as of Jan. 1 totaled 2.353 million tons or 15 per cent more than 1975. Milk production for Ohio during December 1975 totaled 342 million pounds compared to 336 million pounds for the same period in 1974. Preliminary estimate for milk production for the whole year is 4.277 million pounds, 2 per cent more than 1975.

The number of farms in Ohio at the end of 1975, estimated at 117,000, was unchanged from 1974. The service said the 1976 estimate indicates a slight decline. Average farm size for this year remains at 149 acres. The preliminary estimate for the number of farms in the United States in 1976 is 2.786 million, a 1 per cent decline from last year.

Estimated stocks of fall potatoes in Ohio and off-farm storages totaled 580,000 hundred weight, a decrease of 70,000 hundred weight from last year.

At the national level, stocks totaled 152.9 million hundred weight, down 6 per cent from 1975.

In wheat yield, the state produced 74.34 million bushels last year, the largest crop ever recorded in Ohio and 15 per cent more than 1974. Oat production was 30.5 million bushels, 4 per cent above 1974; barley, 564,000, 6 per cent below 1974; and rye was estimated at 196,000 bushels, 17 per cent above 1974's record low production.

Burley tobacco production was estimated at 21.85 million pounds, 9 per cent more than 1974.

Wind-Whipped Flames Rage Over California Brushland

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Wind-whipped flames swirled across about 2,400 acres of tinder-dry brush above this seaside resort, burning at least 21 expensive homes and approaching, at one point, the home of ex-President Richard M. Nixon.

At least 12 persons were injured and hundreds fled their homes Wednesday as the fire spread from its starting point at the Marine Corps base at camp Pendleton right up to their back porches, firemen said. Fire damage to homes was estimated at more than $1 million.

Fire officials reported after nightfall that the blaze had been encircled, but they wouldn't predict how long it would take to control the fire.

The blaze that swept down on various canyon housing developments came within 1½ miles of Nixon's ocean-front villa, located on the coast about midway between Los Angeles and San Diego. Nixon was apparently inside the house at the time.

The fire would have to cross several major thoroughfares, including the

Pilot Error Said To Blame In Fatal Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board ruled Wednesday that pilot error probably caused a Trans World Airlines jet carrying 92 persons to slam into the side of a northern Virginia mountain a year ago, killing all on board.

TWA Flight 514, flying through a severe storm at more than 260 miles per hour, slammed into the top of Mt. Weather, in the Blue Ridge Mountains on Dec. 1, 1974. The flight had originated at Indianapolis, Ind., with a stop at Columbus, Ohio, and was on its final approach into Dulles International Airport outside Washington when it crashed.

The federal panel concluded on a 3-to-2 vote that the pilots of the plane were probably responsible for the crash. The two dissenting members would have assigned probable blame to both the ground-based air traffic controllers and the pilots.

The board questioned the wisdom of the action taken by the air traffic controller and also cited the Federal Aviation Administration, which employs the controllers, for failure to clear up the "confusion and misinterpretation of air traffic terminology although the agency had been aware of the problem for several years."

The ruling will have no effect on the lawsuits filed as a result of the crash. TWA and the FAA since have agreed to share the liability and damages in the lawsuits.

TWA Flight 514 was flying at 7,000 feet and was 44 miles from the airport when a Dulles air controller told the pilot the flight had been cleared for an approach to the airport runway.

The pilot concluded this clearance gave him authority to descend to his initial approach altitude of 1,800 feet and began to do so. Three minutes later, after looking at the airport approach charts, he questioned whether the plane should be descending but decided his initial conclusion was correct.

The plane at that point was flying at 2,800 feet—already 600 feet below the minimum altitude published on the approach chart. It continued descending until the radio altimeter horn sounded a warning that the plane was near the ground.

The final words on the cockpit tape recorder had the captain saying "Get some power on." The plane struck the mountain two seconds later.

San Diego Freeway, to get to the former Western White House.

Cinders rained down on the former president's lawn and thick smoke blanketed the sky earlier in the day. Nixon himself made no official comment, but an aide said, "You sure can tell" the fire is near.

"It's a nightmare," Jay Durkin, who abandoned his home as the fire approached Wednesday night, told a reporter by telephone.

"You can't see across from my house for the smoke. The whole hill is ablaze. The fire department just came in, and I've got to get out now," he said.

"We're being overrun," said one reporter on the scene. "The smoke is so thick I can hardly see. There are sparks falling all over the place. Several homes are burning. Women and children have been pulled out and the men are gathering belongings from their homes."

A Marine Corps spokesman said the blaze may have been accidentally started at Pendleton by Marine engineers working at a pistol range in Christianitos Canyon, which like much of Southern California is suffering from a nine-month drought.

The fire broke electric power lines stretching across the Marine base and caused power blackouts for 22,000 residents of San Clemente.

South Africa Pulling Out Of Angola?

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials have received reports that South African military units have been ordered to pull out of Angola.

Without the support provided by South African troops, pro-Western soldiers in Southern Angola will be unable to repel the more heavily armed pro-Soviet Angolan forces and their Cuban allies, sources say.

Meanwhile, Pentagon officials said Russian navy units have pulled back about 2,000 miles from the Angolan coast.

They said the nearest U.S. surface ship to Angola is the guided-missile cruiser Little Rock, which is on what is described as a good will visit to Casablanca, Morocco, some 3,000 miles from the war.

U.S. officials have been increasingly pessimistic about the prospects for Western-backed forces since the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) and Cuban troops overran Northern Angola last week.

On the basis of information received since then, intelligence analysts said the Russians appear disinterested in any negotiated settlement among the contending Angolan parties because the MPLA and the Cubans seem to be winning.

In the wake of the defeat of Western-backed forces in Northern Angola, U.S. intelligence sources said South African units have begun moving southward from forward bases in central and southern Angola.

U.S. analysts believe the South African decision to pull out of the war may have been spurred by increasing opposition at home to the Angola involvement and because South African strategists may have concluded they face a necessity of committing more troops to counter a growing Cuban fighting force.

Some analysts think the Western-backed National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA) may abandon conventional war and resort to guerrilla tactics after the South Africans leave.

As battlefield momentum swung against the Western-backed forces, Russia and Cuba were reported increasing direct support to the MPLA.

Utility Fined Over Tree Loss

CLEVELAND (AP) — Probate Judge Ralph Locher slapped the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. with a $7,400 contempt-of-court fine Wednesday and ordered the utility to replace 15 trees in the Cuyahoga Valley National Park.

Locher found CEI in contempt for disregarding his order last year enjoining the utility from installing lines in the park. He ordered the company to complete restoration by April 1977 of the park area where the Ohio Department of Natural Resources said CEI had cleared land and installed utility poles.

However, Locher modified his order so CEI can install high-voltage lines to serve Republic Steel Corp., which said it must have the power to meet federal orders to clean up plant emissions. Republic's chief district engineer, David Poole, told Locher that without more power Republic can't meet the federal air standards and would have to shut down.

Urge Caution In State Tax Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Not everyone in the legislature is convinced the lawmakers should rush ahead quickly to enact property tax relief without the impact on local government revenues being fully known.

Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, admonished the House in a floor speech Wednesday that the members should look more closely at proposals that take away revenues from schools and other government entities which "need the money badly." Galbraith, a member of the House since 1967, said he recognized that "all of us want to get on the bandwagon for property tax relief," and while some proposals may have merit, "I'm fearful about the attitude that seems to prevail."

Galbraith was joined by another veteran conservative, Rep. Robert E. Netzel, R-81 Laura, in opposing a bill to give homeowners a tax reduction for improvements they make to their property.

Netzel was voted down 57-35 in an attempt to send the bill back to committee for consideration "at a later time." The bill eventually went to the Senate on a vote of 70-25.

The legislature heard from another source earlier Wednesday a suggestion that hasty plans for tax relief might be ill-conceived.

Dr. Frederick Stocker, testifying at a session of the legislature's Joint Economic Conference, said Ohio already has lower taxes generally than most other states.

The Senate-House panel is looking for ways to improve Ohio's economy.

Stocker, a professor of economics at Ohio State University, said Ohio, in 1973-1974, was 42nd among 50 states in total general revenue per capita from tax sources.

The joint conference, which resumes its deliberations next week, is looking at taxation as only one of many factors it feels are affecting Ohio's current economic slump.
